Military Bases Will Be Kept

Named by Bundestag

Socialist Willy Brandt New German Chancellor

By PETER REHAK
Associated Press Writer

BONN (AP) — The Bundestag elected Willy Brandt chancellor of West Germany today, ending two decades of Christian Democratic rule and giving West Germany its first Socialist chancellor in the nation's 20-year history.

The vote in the lower house of Parliament was 251-235 in Brandt's favor with five deputies abstaining, four ballots invalid and one deputy absent.

Brandt's victory, which gives him a mandate to govern for the next four years, was made possible by a coalition with the tiny Free Democratic party. In the Sept. 28 general election, Brandt's Social Democrats won only 224 seats to the Christian Democrats' 242, but the Free Democrats control 30 seats and gave Brandt the necessary majority.

Brandt

the two parties to avoid making an issue of them at first.

"One will see how long it lasts," he said.

Berlin Mayor

Brandt made an international name as mayor of West Berlin from 1957 to 1966, but the Socialists under his leadership were unable to capture the government in the 1961 and 1965 elections.

Brandt was born Herbert Frahm on Dec. 18, 1913. He was illegitimate and was reared by his grandfather, a Socialist. He took the name Willy Brandt legally in 1948.

In high school, Brandt has said, "my friends were experts on cars, soccer and soaring planes — I was the politician."

He became an ardent Socialist, and when Adolf Hitler took power, he fled to Norway and became a Norwegian citizen.

When the Nazis overran Norway, he went to Sweden, and did not return to Germany until after World War II.

German Citizenship

He reapplied for German citizenship in 1948 and entered Social Democratic politics.

Brandt is now married to his second wife, Rut, a Norwegian. They have three sons—Peter, 21, Lars, 18, and Matthias, 8.

Brandt has said that he plans to be a "chancellor of internal reforms." The top ranks of Bonn's civil service may be shaken up, with scores of officials retired or taken out of influential places.

Brandt and the leader of the Free Democrats, Walter Scheel, have been working out the formula under which their parties will share power.

Scheel will be foreign minister and vice chancellor. He is expected to cooperate closely with Brandt, and Bonn's foreign policy is unlikely to undergo any immediate dramatic change.

Somalia's Government Falls in Coup After Funeral of Assassinated Leader

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) — A military coup overthrew Somalia's elected government early today less than 24 hours after the funeral of assassinated President Abdirashid Ali Shermarke.

The self-styled Revolutionary Council said in a broadcast: "The revolution was staged to save Somalia from the corrupt malpractices of the ruling class."

The council said it will "abolish all the bad things left behind. Somalia will be led by responsible people, and tribalism will be abolished."

The council announced that the country had been sealed off from the outside world and that airports and seaports were closed. Some 400 Americans live in this sun-baked coastal city and in other parts of Somalia.

Troops in full battle dress with fixed bayonets took control before dawn amid an unusually heavy rain. All businesses except restaurants and essential stores were ordered closed. Banks, communications offices, the harbor, the government printing office and other key installations were heavily guarded.

The government radio announced shortly after 11 a.m. that groups of more than three persons would not be permitted, and that no movement would be permitted on streets after 4 p.m.

Trucks with loudspeakers drove through the city announcing that today and perhaps Wednesday were holidays and that a new government was being formed.

He was criticized this week by local newspapers which accused him of selling public lands at drastically reduced prices to political friends.

No shooting or violence was reported by persons walking about the city.

Motor traffic was at a standstill, except for military vehicles. Some persons were forced to abandon their cars at gunpoint about sunup, but they were permitted to retrieve them later in the day.

People stood around in the shade, talking quietly or walking along backstreets to avoid the soldiers patrolling all main streets and guarding all embassies.

A radio announcement said the armed forces assumed power at 3 a.m. It said the country's foreign policy would remain the same.

State Funeral

Shermarke, who was elected in June 1967, was given a state funeral in Mogadishu Monday. The parliament had been expected to elect his successor within a month, and acting President Muktar Mohamed Hussein was among the leading candidates.

Hussein moved into the acting presidency from the presidency of the national assembly.

The Somali Embassy in Nairobi said a junta had been formed and had replaced the government of Prime Minister Mohamed Ibrahim Egal, the head of the Somali Youth League.

Shermarke became prime minister of Somalia in 1960 when the Texas-size territory of 4.5 million people gained its independence after years of rule by the Italians and the British.

Located at the tip of East Africa, Somalia is one of the hottest countries in the world and its people are nomadic cattle-men and traders. It is bordered by French Somaliland, Ethiopia and Kenya.

Mogadishu Radio said the Supreme Military Council ordered a curfew in the capital from 4 p.m. to 10 a.m. each day.

The broadcast said all public gatherings of more than three persons were forbidden and the military had been empowered to search persons at home and in the streets without a warrant.

Soviet Ship In Waters Off Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — A Soviet trawler came within a few hundred yards of South Vietnamese territorial waters on Sunday but left when government patrol boats went out to investigate, official sources reported today.

On Friday, South Vietnamese patrol boats fired at and possibly hit another Russian trawler which entered the 12-mile territorial limit near Da Nang.

The sources said ships believed to be Soviet have come close to South Vietnamese territorial waters several times in the past, but no report was made public because they did not violate the territorial limit.

The English-language Saigon Post reported that on Sunday a ship identified as the Grigory Vakulenchuk appeared early in the morning 12.5 miles off the South Vietnamese naval base at Re Island, about 50 miles south of the site of the incident Friday. The report said the Vakulenchuk lay off the coast until late in the evening, two government patrol boats moved out to shadow her, then the Soviet ship left.

There was speculation that the trawler was maintaining some kind of electronic watch on naval station's radar and radio equipment.

Hurricane Laurie Threatens Mississippi, Louisiana Tip

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Hurricane Laurie lumbered through the Gulf of Mexico today and took a veering path that threatened the tip of Louisiana and the storm-crushed coast of Mississippi.

The growing storm, its highest winds now whipping over open water at 100 miles per hour, drifted nearly 50 miles eastward during the early morning hours.

At 10 a.m. the New Orleans Weather Bureau located Laurie at about 230 miles south of New Orleans at 28.7 north latitude and 90.0 west longitude.

Gale Winds

Gale winds of 50 miles per hour reached the mouth of the Mississippi River—about 100 miles southeast of New Orleans

The Weather Bureau's 10 a.m. advisory said Laurie was poking along at about five miles per hour with a predicted slow and erratic movement during the day.

The move to the east lessened the threat to the southwestern Louisiana coast but the late-season storm caused concern along the Mississippi Gulf Coast, still crushed from the battering it took from Hurricane Camille just two months ago.

Through Marshlands

Despite the growing menace from the storm, Mississippians along the 30-mile beach from Pass Christian to Pascagoula didn't appear perturbed during the morning hours.

But in the low-lying areas of Louisiana, all through the marshlands south and west of New Orleans to the Gulf's edge, evacuees moved into refuge centers on higher ground.

In Lafourche Parish, where oil is a big factor in the economy, more than 25,000 residents were asked to leave homes in low spots for evacuation stations in Raceland, Lockport and Thibodaux.

Oil companies with crews working offshore rigs closed operations Monday and moved crews to land.

Schools in some of the coastal counties of Louisiana closed Monday and Hancock County, Miss., just across the Louisiana line, closed its schools today.

Senate Gives Breath of Life To Tarr Bill

MADISON — In a close vote today the State Senate gave new life to the failing Tarr Task Force tax redistribution plan by approving on a 17-14 vote the consideration of amendments before voting on whether the bill should die.

The procedural move gives backers the opportunity to change the bill to appeal to possible swing votes in the senate.

Area lawmakers voting for the tactical change included William Draheim, R-Neenah, and Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek. Opposed were Reuben LaFave, R-Oconto, and Myron Lotto, R-Green Bay.

Japan's Job

But Japan will take over the job of actually defending the strategic chain with its own sea, ground and air defense units, they said.

The U.S. base on Okinawa would be operated under the same conditions as prevail on other U.S. military bases in Japan under the existing security treaty between the two nations.

After June, 1970, the security treaty can be terminated by either side on one year's notice.

Major Hurdle

He said he regarded his election as "a major hurdle" for his government coalition of Social Democrats and Free Democrats, but he added that the government's work "will not be all that easy."

Kiesinger said Brandt's small majority on the vote was "a sign of what is ahead."

"The new coalition will have a difficult time," he told newsmen. "It will have an opposition that is stronger than any in previous Bundestag. We will, of course, be a strong opposition."

Kiesinger added that there were differences between the partners in the new governing coalition, but that he expected

Dinis Describes Necessity for Kopechne Autopsy

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis took the witness stand today to contradict earlier testimony by an associate medical examiner who said Dinis had told him he did not think an autopsy on the body of Mary Jo Kopechne was necessary.

Dinis said he had first sought an autopsy on July 20, one day after the young woman's body was recovered from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's automobile in a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island.

By that time, Dinis said, Miss Kopechne's body already had been flown to Pennsylvania for burial in nearby Larksville.

Dinis testified before Judge Bernard C. Brominski of Common Pleas Court in the second day of a hearing on Dinis' petition to have the body of the 28-year-old secretary exhumed for an autopsy.

He says an autopsy is vital to an inquest he has scheduled into her death.

Dr. Donald R. Mills, associate medical examiner for Dukes County, Mass., testified Monday about a telephone conversation he had with Dinis "on Thursday, July 24 or thereabouts."

Sure of Drowning

Mills quoted Dinis as saying: "Mills, you're quite sure of your diagnosis of death by drowning?"

"My answer was, I certainly am," Mills said.

"Then Dinis said 'I don't think an autopsy is necessary, do you?' and I answered 'No I don't,'" Mills testified.

Dinis today denied he had discussed the advisability of an autopsy with Mills. He said he only discussed whether or not the physician was satisfied with his findings.

Joseph F. Flanagan, counsel for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Kopechne of Berkeley Heights, N.J., who are opposed to the autopsy, objected strenuously again and again as Dinis sought to give his reasons for pursuing the investigation into the girl's death and his need for an autopsy.

Not Satisfied

Armand Fernandes Jr., assistant to Dinis, asked the Massachusetts prosecutor whether he was satisfied with the investigation conducted by the police.

"I am not satisfied," Dinis said loudly just as Flanagan shouted an objection.

"It is not Mr. Dinis' determination to make, whether he is satisfied or not," Brominski commented in sustaining the objection.

"With reference to the death of Mary Jo Kopechne, what investigation if any has your office done?" Fernandes asked.

The objection on this was overruled and Dinis answered, "the district attorney has endeavored to speak to the parties who were present prior to and after the estimated time of death of Mary Jo Kopechne but has been unable to do so."

Witnesses Unavailable

"None of the witnesses was available," Flanagan then asked that this answer be stricken.

Brominski ordered it stricken. Under cross examination by Flanagan, Dinis said that he has authority to order an autopsy "if I am unsatisfied with the conditions as they existed at that time."

"You had authority at that time?" Flanagan asked.

"If I had knowledge upon which to base my judgment."

"You are the authorized district attorney of the four southern Massachusetts counties?"

"Yes."

"Did you order any police officer to do anything?"

"I am the chief prosecutor of the courts. I have no authority over the police. I have no authority to order any police officer to do anything."

Formal Action

Dinis said he decided to take formal action only after Kennedy made his nationwide television address on July 25, explaining his part in the accident.

"Didn't you tell Dr. Mills an autopsy was not necessary?"

Flanagan asked.

"I did not," Dinis said.

"You say you ordered an autopsy at 10 a.m. on July 20?"

"I positively did," Dinis replied.

"When did you learn that the body had been flown off the island?" Flanagan asked.

"I learned it at that time," Dinis said.

"Did you take any additional steps to reclaim the body?"

"No, I did not," Dinis said.

"Did you talk to any law enforcement officer in Luzerne County (Pa.) to see what could be done to get the body back?"

"No, I did not."

A Philadelphia medical examiner testified Monday that an autopsy "would tend to confirm, tend to modify, or could negate," the drowning verdict issued by Mills.

Dr. Joseph W. Spelman said he had performed several thousand autopsies and that an external examination alone, such as was performed on Miss Ko-pechne, "even if carefully and thoroughly done, frequently failed to reveal internal injuries."

Spelman was a key witness Monday in Common Pleas Court during the first day of a hearing on a petition by Dinis, of New Bedford, to have the body exhumed.

Subpoena Tape

Dinis said he expected to finish his presentation today and that he would subpoena a videotape of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's nationally televised statement on events before and after the girl's body was found in her car.

Her father, Joseph A. Kopechne, also said he was prepared to testify.

Dinis maintains he needs an autopsy for an inquest he has scheduled into the death. In his petition to Judge Bernard C. Brominski, Dinis said the condition of the body when recovered "may or may not have been consistent with death by drowning."

Fernandes was admonished by the court Monday for repeatedly asking Dr. Mills and Spelman whether the presence of bloody froth about the mouth or nose could be associated with manual strangulation.

Skull Fracture

Fernandes also raised the possibility of a skull fracture.

Spelman said that although three months have passed since Miss Kopechne's burial in nearby Larksville it still would be possible to make many observations and draw valid conclusions.

"Interpretation would be somewhat more difficult," Spelman said.

"The fact that her body was found in a car underwater," he added, "raises the possibility in my mind that significant injury might have occurred."

The car driven by Kennedy plunged from a narrow bridge into a pond on Chappaquiddick Island off Massachusetts.

Dr. Mills, associate medical examiner of Dukes County, Mass., who made the original ruling of death by drowning, and two chemists who conducted laboratory tests testified that blood was present in Miss Kopechne's nose and on the back, both sleeves and collar of her blouse.

Strangulation

Each time Fernandes mentioned manual strangulation Judge Brominski sustained objections by Joseph F. Flanagan, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Kopechne of Berkeley Heights, N.J. The Kopechnes oppose an autopsy.

At one point, Brominski told Fernandes:

"I want you to stay away from that line of questioning, please."

General Likely To Testify in Graft in Army

Officer's Name Mentioned in Reports on Irregularities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has abruptly recalled a general from Europe to the Pentagon for what may be further sensational testimony in a Senate investigation of military graft.

The Army said Brig. Gen. Earl F. Cole was being reassigned indefinitely to Washington "in connection with the current Senate hearings on alleged irregularities" in noncommissioned officers' club operations. The Army didn't go further officially, but Pentagon sources said Cole's name has figured in military reports on the irregularities which have been turned over to a subcommittee headed by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn.

Not Yet Subpoenaed
Committee sources said Cole, who turned 50 today and is a native of Madison County, Neb., is expected to be questioned although he has not yet been subpoenaed.

Ribicoff's panel is scheduled to resume hearings Wednesday. The sessions recently produced testimony that a group of sergeants profited at the expense of NCO clubs and that Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner, former provost marshal general, sold police-confiscated guns for personal gain.

It was understood the subcommittee wants to question Cole about his tour in Vietnam as deputy chief of staff for personnel and administration in 1966 and 1967—a job which made him a chief overseer of NCO club operations.

It was during that general period when M. Sgt. William Higdon, named in previous Senate testimony, was chief custodian of several service clubs in Vietnam.

Higdon, quoted by one hearing witness as having said a club custodian job "is worth $150,000 a year," ran clubs in the Long Binh area from July 1966 to July 1968.

He was one of several sergeants who joined former Sgt. Major of the Army William O. Woodruff in forming a corporation which did a million-dollar-a-year business with NCO clubs.

Subcommittee sources said Cole also may be questioned about any relationship he had with William Crum, associated with a Hong Kong-based firm called Sarl Electronics which sold slot machines to enlisted men's clubs.

Changing Jobs
Cole, a 26-year Army career man, has had a rather swift series of reassignments recently. In January he was named commander of the European Exchange System, but remained in that job only until September.

Then he was reassigned as deputy assistant chief of staff for logistics at European headquarters in Germany, but that job lasted only one month.

Now, his only duty in the Pentagon will be to be available for matters relating to the Ribicoff hearings, according to Army spokesmen.

Chile Army Units Mutiny

Government Calls Uprising 'Attempt At Military Sedition'

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Officers and men in two army infantry regiments mutinied today and the government announced it was faced "with an attempt at military sedition."

The head of the uprising appeared to be Brig. Gen. Roberto Vialva Maramba, promoted to general officer status nine months ago and withdrawn from command of the 1st Army Infantry Division and called into retirement last week.

The government gave no immediate details, but it ordered all radio and television stations to join a nationwide hook up of indefinite duration.

An official bulletin broadcast over the radio network gave the first word of the uprising. One attempt by troops of the Yungay regiment at the nearby city of San Felipe was apparently blocked by loyal troops. Official sources reported a major and a captain recently discharged from the army tried to seize command there and were arrested.

The other attempt at the Tacna regiment with headquarters in one of Santiago's residential districts apparently took hold. A captain, only identified by the name of Mora, seized command of the unit and mutinied with a handful of field officers, according to informants.

Gen. Vialva was reported with the Tacna regiment.

Cosmonauts Leave New York For Visit to Space Center

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Soviet cosmonauts canceled a visit to the Statue of Liberty and the Empire State Building today deciding to leave for the Manned Space Flight Center in Houston, Tex.

Col. Frank Borman, the American astronaut accompanying the cosmonauts on their two-week visit here, said the Russian spacemen canceled the visits to make time for a banquet in Los Angeles Thursday night.

The Soviets surprised their American hosts Monday by announcing they could not make their scheduled stop at Cape Kennedy, Fla., where America launches its space flights.

Return Visit
They gave no explanation for that cancellation, but some Americans traveling with the party speculated that Moscow feared that if the two visited the Cape, then Washington might request that American astronauts be allowed to visit the Soviet secret take-off center at Baikonur in central Asia. On their first day in the United States Monday, the cosmonauts took in a Broadway show and dined in a French restaurant. They drank only vodka.

Arrived Monday
One of them said their warm welcome "revealed humanity at its best."

Maj. Gen. Georgi T. Beregovoi, 43, and Konstantin Feoktistov, 43, a civilian, arrived in New York Monday from Moscow. They immediately declined an invitation to Mayor John V. Lindsay's reception for the New York Mets, the baseball world champions.

"They have just had a 12-hour jet trip and they're pooped," said Col. Frank Borman, the U.S. astronaut who is their host on the two-week tour. Beregovoi and Feoktistov

Five Children Receive Settlement After Death
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Javne Mansfield's five children will receive $22,000 each in a settlement of a suit filed after the actress died in a car crash.

Superior Court Judge Arthur Marshall also approved Monday an agreement that three of the children receive an additional $5,000 each because of their injuries in the accident that killed their mother June 29, 1967.

Alewifes Might Not be Worthless After All
MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The seemingly worthless alewife which has been a pollution headache along Lake Michigan beaches may prove to be an economically useful fish after all, a food scientist reported Monday.

Prof. Clyde H. Amundson of the University of Wisconsin said studies indicate the alewife, some chubs and the salt-water hake could be processed to serve as diet supplements.

Research, he said, has produced protein derivatives for human consumption. Scientists have also found fish oils that can be used for industrial purposes, including manufacture of a semi-rigid plastic, he added.

The alewife population has exploded occasionally in Lake Michigan in recent years, leaving beaches cluttered and fouled with masses of fish corpses.

Amundson addressed a sea grant conference on methods of utilizing trash fish. The University of Wisconsin and the University of Michigan have been making studies under the state-federal program.

Bishops Endorse Power Revisions

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Sweeping changes in the way bishops help the Pope rule the Roman Catholic Church have been approved by majority votes in all nine subcommittees of the world synod of bishops, a synod source said today. If approved by Pope Paul VI, the changes would mark the end of what some liberals have called an "absolute monarchy" that has ruled the Church for centuries.

The source said the bishops were in "remarkable agreement" on the need for broad expansion of collegiality, the principle of bishops sharing in papal decision-making.

The 146 synod delegates, the source reported, were nearly in unanimous agreement that a synod should be held at least every two years and possibly every year to advise the Pope and that the Pope and the Vatican should keep in constant touch with the bishops on all important doctrinal and disciplinary matters.

Full Consultation
The source said this would avert the chance of a Pope issuing a ruling, such as Pope Paul's ban on artificial birth control, without full consultation with the world's bishops. On the other hand, national bishops conferences would be obliged to consult the Roman Curia, the Vatican's administrative organ, before taking major decisions for their own countries.

The proposals, drawn up by national bishops' conferences and presented to the synod in a working paper last week by Francois Cardinal Marty of France, were voted on by the nine subcommittees Monday. The synod subcommittees are organized by language group.

The proposals now go to the full assembly for discussion and are expected to receive formal approval later this week. They then will be presented to the Pope.

Many observers believe the pontiff will put most of the recommendations into effect but that he will not relinquish the primacy he exercises over the half-billion-member Church.

Maintain Primary
The working paper asks for far greater emphasis on the national conferences of bishops and less influence by the conservative Roman Curia in setting Church policy.

Some synod delegates were reported to be asking for even sharper changes than those included in the report. Some priests thought that the national conferences should be allowed to decide individually whether to allow priests in their areas to marry and still retain their priestly functions. This would conflict with Pope Paul's encyclical on priestly celibacy in which he upheld the 1,500-year-old discipline of obligatory celibacy for priests of the Western—or Latin—Rite.

amination establish that a person died of a fractured skull?"

"I have to answer that yes," Mills replied.

"Don't Know"
"It is your opinion therefore that it would establish it," Fernandes said. "What of manual strangulation?"

"I don't know how he would answer that question, counsel, the way you phrased it," the judge said.

Kennedy did not attend the hearing. He was in Brussels, Belgium, attending a meeting of the assembly of the North Atlantic Assembly.

After the accident last July Kennedy pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident and was given a suspended sentence of two months, with a year's probation.

Mills testified Monday that when he examined the body about a half hour after it was recovered from the submerged vehicle he saw "at least one cobweb of blood which clearly came from the edge of the nostril." However, he said, that was common in drowning victims.

Informative
Dr. George Katsas of Boston, a pathologist, supported Spelman's view that an autopsy could be informative.

He said that it was his opinion "that an external examination of the body does not exclude the possibility of internal injuries that may have contributed to, or caused, the death."

Katsas said there were three tests that could be given an exhumed body that would show conclusively whether drowning had occurred.

Mills testified, "It was obviously a clear case of drowning." He said his examination of the body took 10 minutes.

"She had no evidence of injuries on her body, such as bruises, cuts, broken bones," he said.

Beat Generation's Jack Kerouac Dies

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Jack Kerouac, spokesman of the beat generation whose books ushered in the hippie era, died today at a St. Petersburg hospital. He was 47.

Kerouac's wife, Stella, said he died about 5:30 a.m. of massive abdominal hemorrhaging.

She said Kerouac was rushed to St. Anthony's Hospital Monday afternoon, but did not respond to emergency treatment to stop the internal bleeding.

Kerouac's first book was titled "The Town and the City."

It was an autobiographical work detailing his youth in Lowell, Mass., and later adventures in New York City.

His best known book was "On The Road," an account of his wide travels across the country in the early 1950's. Later came "The Dharma Bums" and "The Subterraneans" which also dealt with his travels and popularized the notion of the beat generation.

Kerouac was at the home of his mother in St. Petersburg when he was stricken. He and his wife had been staying at the house for several months, caring for the ailing woman.

Had a Hernia
In an interview with a St. Petersburg Times reporter earlier this month, Kerouac said he was suffering from a hernia.

Kerouac was quoted in the article as saying he had not written much recently. But he did author an article for the Oct. 12 issue of the Times' magazine "The Floridian."

Kerouac often said his original intention regarding the term "beat," had to do with the idea of "beatific," a term he used for the concept of people rejecting materialism of the United States in the 1950's and turning instead to a frank enjoyment of life.

He was a Roman Catholic but was fascinated with Zen Buddhism.

In the newspaper interview, Kerouac said he was planning a new novel: "Stories of the past. My story is endless. I put a teletype roll . . . and run it through there and fix the margins and just go, go, just go, go go."

Sound Gear Banned From UW Politics

GREEN BAY (AP)—University of Wisconsin regents have decided bullhorns and similar sound-amplification gear is suitable on campus for homecoming events, but not for political rallies.

The policy approved Friday reflects complaints against student agitators who use bullhorns during demonstrations. UW President Fred H. Harington objected to the decision, saying it establishes "a very restrictive policy because of action by a very small minority of students."

"A political discussion," he said, "is as important as a campus carnival."

Regent Charles D. Gelatt of La Crosse challenged the opinion, remarking: "There is no such thing as a discussion with a bullhorn."

Frinzi Suing for Bugging of Office

MILWAUKEE (AP)—An attorney filed a $1 million Circuit Court suit Friday, saying his reputation had been damaged by the government's having bugged his office with a microphone in 1963.

Attorney Dominic H. Frinzi named two former FBI agents, a State Crime Laboratory official and Wisconsin telephone Co.

The government had acknowledged tapping Frinzi's office, "because of his association" with personalities involved in investigations at the time.

The Dual Significance of the Moratorium

The day and night-long moratorium to express opposition to the war in Vietnam and in some cases to try to discover ways of terminating it with honor was remarkable in that it was almost entirely peaceful. It demonstrated the wide extent of the opposition and concern, especially among the young but not exclusively so. For this reason it was a worthwhile endeavor.

But there is a more ominous facet to some of the opposition to the war which has not been limited only to the one day's observance. As some school officials have explained in refusing to abandon classes for the day, it has also become an anti-Nixon move that is not completely honest and could involve far greater risks of not achieving a reasonable end to the conflict.

Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, who a year and one-half ago advised then President Johnson that he was being misled about the course of the war and that it was probably a massive mistake in any case, has warned against "the attempt being made by so many sources to destroy Nixon...I think we're going to have a major constitutional crisis if we make a habit of destroying presidents. We'll have the situation we had after the Civil War when the presidency practically disappeared." There is no doubt that the vehement opposition to the war, expressed in particular by the support for Senator Eugene McCarthy, did destroy President Johnson, at least to the extent of convincing him that he might go down to humiliating defeat either at the nominating convention or at the election in November.

But those who so strenuously criticize President Nixon now and the fact that nine months after he took office he has not yet removed us entirely from the war, overlook several facts. It seems obvious that Mr. Nixon thoroughly recognizes that the war must end, that it is a political liability for him and an issue that is tearing the nation apart. He has firmly said that military victory is out of the question, although some reports indicate that he may not be quite convinced of this if the North Vietnamese continue to refuse to negotiate sincerely in Paris. He is withdrawing some 60,000 American troops by December. The casualty rates of the last three weeks are far less than in any such period in the last three years. He has changed the policy of "maximum pressure" upon the enemy to one of only shooting back.

Some of the opponents to the war advise that we simply pack up immediately and pull out all of the American troops. They argue, quite accurately, that the Saigon regime is not a representative government but when they go on to insist that therefore it does not deserve any support from us, they are ignoring Asian history. With a few exceptions, notably Japan, there is no truly representative government in Asia, nor any tradition of such. In our opinion President Thieu and his advisors have made a serious mistake in not succeeding in broadening the base of their support but when Americans try to insist upon instant democracy the world around, they are interfering as much in domestic affairs of another nation as is our military involvement in Vietnam.

Even more disturbing is the doubt over what might happen to the millions of South Vietnamese who have in one way or another supported the American troops. If we simply abandon the country at this point, it seems likely that the North Vietnamese combined with the National Liberation Front would achieve a military victory. It is not so much that the communization of a nation appeals us; it is the danger of a bloodbath similar to the atrocities committed by the enemy at Hue during the Tet offensive. Obviously this danger has increased because of the extent of American involvement but we cannot go back four years and pretend that we never had half a million troops in Vietnam or that we never extensively bombed the north.

It is politically unrealistic to expect the American people to declare a moratorium on criticism of President Nixon and his policies as requested by Senator Hugh Scott. It has also appeared that some of his efforts to de-escalate the war were aimed as much at defusing the opposition.

But he is the President of the United States and the only person at present in a position to set policies aimed at finally reaching a negotiated settlement with Hanoi which would not risk too greatly the lives of the South Vietnamese. The alternatives are a resumption of the war in a drive toward a bloody and costly military victory which we certainly could achieve by wiping out North Vietnam unless the Soviet Union entered the fray, or capitulation. We may be driven to one or the other course but a negotiated peace is far preferable and destroying President Nixon is no way to achieve it.

formula would send shared taxes where they are most badly needed, as measured by population and the level of existing property tax rates. In its report last January, the Tarr task force said the result would be that 79 per cent of the state's local governments would record a tax rate decrease. Municipalities with a rate of $35 per $1,000 of state equalized value would be reduced from 124 to 27, those in the middle with rates of from $20 to $35 would be increased from 1,579 to 1,743, and those with rates of less than $20 would be decreased from 133 to 66. In other words, the idea is to equalize the property tax burden, to send new money where the greatest problems are, and to cut back the "tax island" element in the comparison of tax rates.

Lotto is a senator who can, if he wishes, put the political elements Thompson spoke of on a scale. Some rural towns, suburbs, and small cities in his Brown-Calumet County district would lose under the redistribution. But the largest municipality in the district, Green Bay, will stand to benefit greatly over the long pull and has the greatest property tax pressures before it.

The position of La Fave is more difficult to comprehend for the redistribution also will help rural areas with high tax rates because of tax base problems. Thus, while La Fave was blasting away at Milwaukee last week, the fact was that the new formula also would benefit his home town of Oconto by about a $7 reduction in the local rate.

What really is involved in the crucial vote on the Tarr formula is whether state government in Wisconsin is going to accept its proper role in fighting urban problems. In some states, city officials already have given up trying to win this point and have turned directly to Washington for help. Voting for the Tarr bill from the viewpoint of what is best for all the people could help prevent this from happening in Wisconsin.

Looking Backward

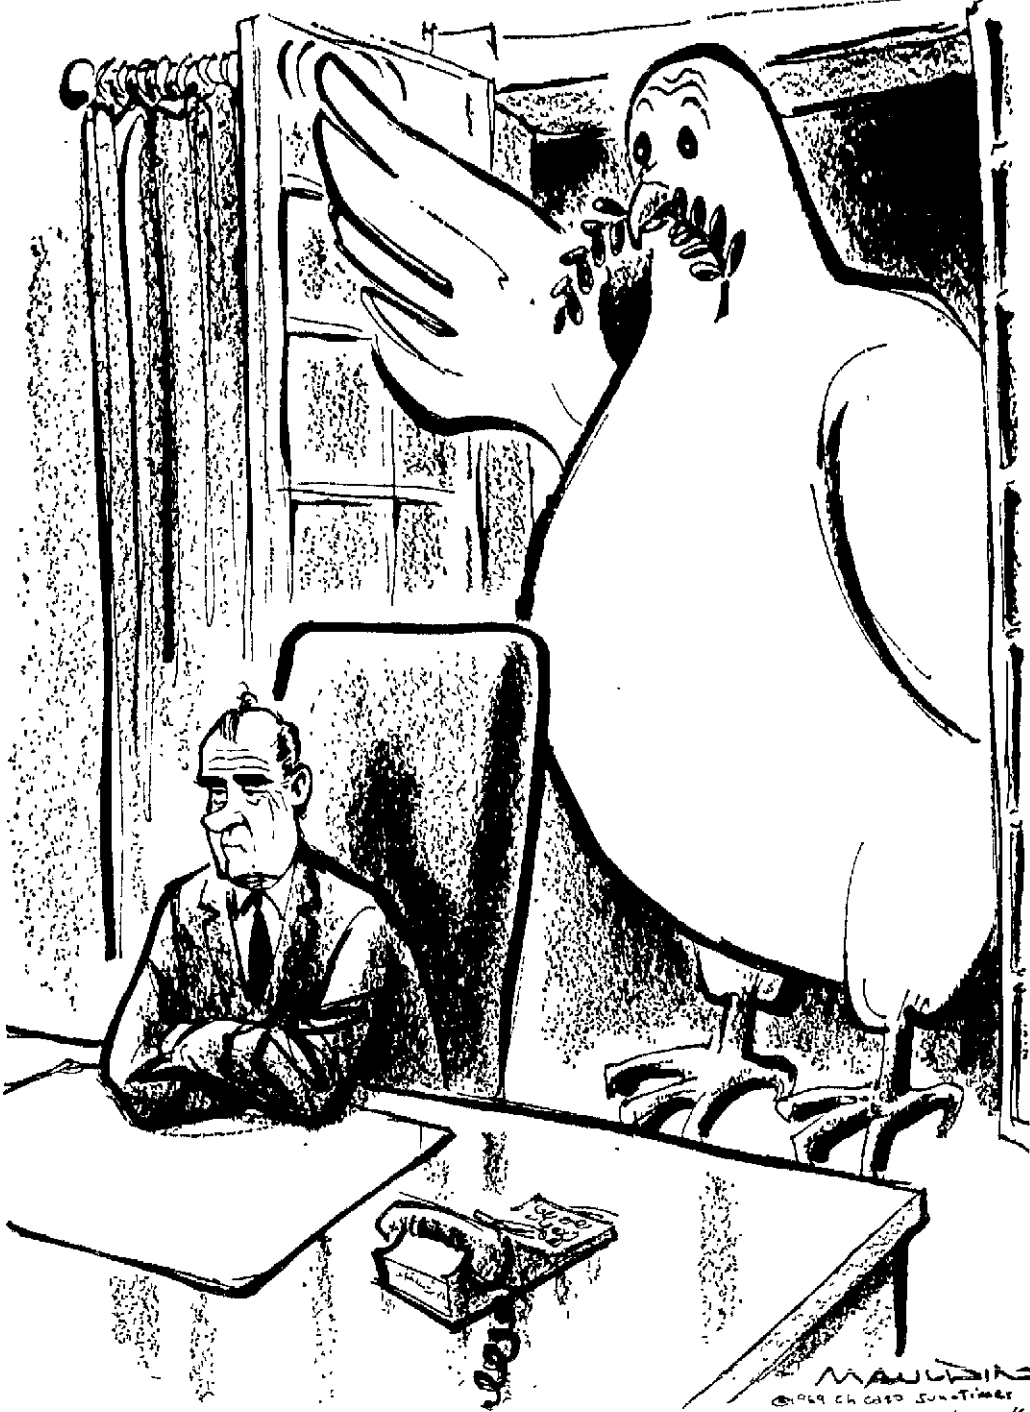

Gov. Fairchild No Whisky Guzzler

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for Oct. 21, 1869

There has been considerable said throughout the state since the renomination of Gov. Fairchild about his intemperate proclivities. Of course all these charges have been made for political effect, or through ignorance of the facts in the case. But lest some wavering Republicans should be deceived by this unfair scheme of our opponents, we publish a letter from Mr. Hastings a man whose veracity is unimpeachable and whose intimate association with Gov. Fairchild would enable him to give the facts as they exist. The following is what Mr. Hastings says:

"My attention has just been called to the following extract from an article published in the La Crosse Democrat. Speaking of Gov. Fairchild, it says: 'There are no men in responsible positions who are more determined whisky guzzlers than he, and he was never known to travel without a bottle of the beverage among his conveniences.' ... I wish to say in the most unqualified manner, that the statements of the La Crosse Democrat, quoted above are false. Gov. Fairchild is not a whisky guzzler and he always travels without a bottle of whisky among his conveniences. He is not a drinking man in any sense of the term, not having used liquor in any way for the past three years, and his example during that period has been in favor of entire abstinence." Wednesday, Oct. 18, 1844 Adolf Hitler, observing that "just as in 1939, we are facing the enemy alone," proclaimed tonight the formation of an armed German home guard and declared: "Germany's second all-out effort must and will succeed." Hitler's voice, which has not been heard on radio channels since shortly after the reported assassination attempt of July 20, was absent again from the German airways today. His decree

Talk Humphrey Never Delivered Goes Down Into History Books

BY JOHN P. ROCHE
WASHINGTON — On October 10, former Vice President Hubert Humphrey, at President Nixon's invitation, spent more than an hour in the Oval Office discussing the Vietnamese situation. It was the first time that Mr. Nixon has opened up to his opponent of 1968 and it can be reliably reported that Mr. Humphrey was greatly impressed by the President's conviction and logic in setting forth the Administration's program for ending the war. Indeed, at his own suggestion, Humphrey later went into the press lobby at the White House and urged non-partisan support for Nixon's peacemaking efforts. For this, he was promptly denounced by the "pull our overnight" wing of the Democratic Party. However, in fairness to both Humphrey and Nixon it should be noted that a strong case can be made that such a pullout would create far greater problems for American society than does the war. On this point President Nixon was, according to well-informed sources, particularly persuasive in his session with Humphrey. RECALL FALL OF CHINA Both Nixon and Humphrey were Senators in the early '50s and they share the memory of the impact that the fall of mainland China had on American politics. The same Americans who would have bellowed with rage in 1949 if massive military efforts had been made to preserve the Nationalist regime from the Communists, were surging around the countryside by 1952 looking for the traitors who "betrayed China to the Reds." And no Americans were killed in China.

Pornography
In Song on Your Radio

Editor, The Post-Crescent: Although much is said and written against pornographic magazines and books, we hear little in opposition to the suggestive song lyrics being broadcasted daily over the radio. Many people do not realize the meanings of some of these songs — they view popular music as being little more than noise. Since this music is only a turn of the radio dial away, I believe this is at least as much of a threat to our children as that of obscene literature and pictures. Anyone who is concerned about this can call the radio station when they hear an objectionable song telling them exactly what they object to as well as the time they heard the song. (Even though many stations make an effort to keep this type of music from being aired, they sometimes overlook some of it.) They can also write to the Federal Communications Commission through which all radio must get their license to broadcast. It's address is: Federal Communications Commission, Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois. Concerned the one giving way to the new swimming pool in Interlake Park remained undecided today. Among the Fox Cities social groups who got into the swing of the holiday party season over the weekend with the Manhattan Dance Club was a formal dinner dance and Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club and Civic League with a 10th anniversary celebration.

Wisconsin Report
Higher Education May Have to Rely More on Federal Financing

By JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — The experienced and wise friend earlier quoted in these reports on the question of managing the exploding higher education system of Wisconsin also posed the question: Who should decide how much higher education the taxpayer can afford? In the strictly legal and constitutional sense, the answer is self-evident. The legislature holds the purse strings, now as since the establishment of the state. But the implications of his query ran deeper. Doubtless he meant to pose the question: To whom should the legislature listen on the subject, these men being representatives of the people but having difficulty, as in the last few legislative sessions, in coming to an acceptable agreement on the question? The conservative to moderate view point of the ordinary man with a family, earning an ordinary salary in inflationary times, may be distinctly at odds with the parents of a couple of young people who want the best college training available for them but who cannot afford the swelling tuition charges of nonpublic institutions. That man of the middle class who is paying taxes higher than he believes he can afford may also have views quite contrary to those of the increasingly influential higher educational establishment, which finds ways and means to lobby the legislature in the open and through more subtle methods. Thus, although the answer may be equivocal, it is perfectly evident that the legislature will continue to make such decisions, never being quite sure that they have decided wisely or correctly.

Wyngaard

THE PRESSURES
But there are signs that, whatever the maximum tolerability of the state tax base with respect to higher education, it is being approached. The other day, Gov. Warren Knowles held a regular meeting with his education cabinet and reported on the education-finance deliberations and conclusions of the National Governors' Conference held some weeks ago. The prime decision of the governors, as accurate a cross-section of responsible American political thinking as is probably available, is that the federal taxing power must be increasingly used for the financing of education. Nobody at the governor's table made any objection to the idea, being aware, as the man on the street is not always aware, that state and local costs in the country as a percentage of gross national product have been accelerating rapidly, while a national government costs have been declining by this measurement. 66 PER CENT Two-thirds of the state's general fund budget is now spent for education. The most single-minded champion of educational expansion cannot avoid the conclusion that the demands for more money will be increasingly difficult. With respect to higher education, especially, the idea of heavier national involvement is reasonable and logical. Already many of the men of the University of Wisconsin regard their school as a "national institution." To a considerable degree, Wisconsin universities are training productive specialists for the country as a whole, as thousands of their best graduates migrate to dramatize what the Governor's Committee on Economic Development calls the "brain drain." Wisconsin is educating thousands of students whose parents pay taxes to other states. Perhaps the most dramatic example is in medical education, the most costly of all. While spending huge sums per newly trained physician, this state confronts a doctor shortage while up to 40 per cent of the newly graduated physicians pull up stakes to establish practice elsewhere in the country.

The Richer We Get,
The Worse We Live

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
Speaking of American cities, as I was yesterday, reminded me that the richer we get, the more unappetizing alternatives we are faced with. Like deciding between the city and the suburb. About three-quarters of our population now live in urban complexes, and the percentage is going up every year. It has been estimated that by the end of this century, 90 per cent of all Americans will be living on 10 per cent of the land. Now, in these urban complexes, dwellers must choose between the central city and the suburb. It is a terrible choice to have to make. In most cases, it becomes a matter of choosing the lesser evil. The city has some positive values that the suburbs lack, but some enormous drawbacks, which make it harder to live there every year. The suburb offers some real advantages, but also has negative qualities that grow stronger every year. But the whole point of getting more prosperous, and taking advantage of our technological progress, is to be able to "live better," in the most embracing sense of that phrase. While, actually, we live worse, both in city and suburb, than we did a few decades ago. What is wrong with the city, in a word, is that it is dehumanizing in its present form. The living is too hard, physically, the pace is too frantic, the pressures too relentless, the services too precarious, the changes too swift, ruthless and traumatic. What is wrong with the suburb, in a word, is that it is stultifying. It lacks variety and diversity; it breeds conformity, if not reaction; it turns into a spiritual ghetto made up of the same kind of people doing the same trivial things for status and appearance and social rivalry. But there are also many things that are right with the city, and many things that are right with the suburb. If we were working toward a good society, in organic terms, we would be drawing the two closer together — giving the suburb better intellectual and spiritual and social values. But exactly the opposite is happening: The cities become more depressed and the suburbs, more sterile. People are forced to choose between clean air on the one side and closed minds on the other. Why is it not possible for the richest, most imaginative, most productive, of all nations to be able to combine the virtues of these two types of living, while minimizing the defects of each?

White Lake Again Destroyed

Editor, Post-Crescent:
As a property owner on White Lake, located in the Town of Royalton, Waupaca County, I feel that the people in the area have a right to know just what is being done to our lake by the Waupaca County Conservation and the Department of Natural Resources in Madison.
Due to the constant low water level, and the annual winter fish kill, some of the property owners had the lake surveyed, and discovered a shortage of nine and one-half inches of water, plus a six-inch piece of iron was cut off the height of the Dam — by orders from the "top brass" of the Department of Natural Resources. This was done so they could control the lake — as they have done at the present time — and make it a mud puddle, any time they so desire.
With the water level maintenance listed in every property owners abstract issued around the lake, the town board of the Town of Royalton was approached and convinced that the water level was down nine and one-half inches. The town board and members of the county board agreed to replace five inches of the six inch piece that was removed.

For a few short months this summer, with the plentiful rainfall this Spring, we had and enjoyed a beautiful lake — there was water, in it for a change — so people could enjoy water skiing, sail boating, motor boat riding, even some swimming. Children were able to play in the water without being loaded with blood suckers and the like. In other words, recreation and enjoyment for all.
But it was short lived. In July the rumbleing started by the DNR that the water was too high, and the five-inch piece that was replaced on the Dam had to be removed. In August the same department demanded it be removed at once — or else! So, the county board did exactly what the DNR wanted, and they now have it down to the mud puddle stage again.

As a matter of fact, from June 15 to Sept. 15, the lake was drained 17 inches, and by Oct. 1, it is safe to say it was lowered another six to seven inches.
Any time after Jan. 15, 1970, you will again see the notice in the papers of the "Big Winter Kill of Fish" (what fish) or "Big Freeze Out of White Lake," by the Waupaca Conservation boys. How can it be any different when they drain out all the water at a set time, year after year?
Notice the gripes of the people in the Germania Marsh Area, where the DNR has done the same thing—ruining the fishing by draining out 38 inches of water at one time — again against the will of the people and taxpayers in that area.
There is also the Clintonville dam controversy, all controlled by our famous DNR, sitting in their offices down in Madison. I would suggest that both—The Waupaca Conservation boys and the DNR title be changed to "the Ruination Dept."

Understand, we have no objections whatever against the duck hunters or ducks on the lake. As a matter of fact we enjoy the ducks equally as much as the duck hunters, or any wild life. But why drain the water out of the lake, when ducks as well as fish need water to exist in.
Remember, the Waupaca Conservation boys do not pay ONE CENT of taxes in our township, but by the same token want control of White Lake and the farmer's land for their own selfishness. Think about this when you get your next tax bill in January. We need improved assessed valuation in the Town of Royalton, not destructive control.
The sad and true part of the White Lake area problem is that the township, farmer's, lake property owner's and all the people in this area, are entitled to a nine and one-half extension on the dam, which would give us more water in the lake and eventually some fishing enjoyment for more sportsmen, instead of the mud puddle we are again reduced to. Let's get, and keep White Lake in a condition that all sportsmen, adults and children alike can enjoy. Not just a chosen few!

Enlightened Men Spoke Out Against Religious Bigotry

Editor, Post-Crescent:
Thomas J. Tasch (Oct. 6 People's Forum) deserves credit for revealing the complete intellectual bankruptcy of the Christian mind.
According to him, the people I cited as humanists were bigoted and prejudiced individuals. Apparently Mr. Tasch is ignorant of the fact that Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson and Voltaire championed intellectual freedom and opposed the religious bigots of their day. Those men of the Enlightenment were shocked at the fact that they were not too far removed in space and time from the days when the Christian churches burned people to death after elaborate religious ceremonies for holding views contrary to the ecclesiastical authorities.

Mr. Tasch probably never heard of Bruno, burned by the Catholics, and Servetus, burned by the Presbyterians. Mr. Tasch better put Pablo Cassals down in his book of "bigots," as he refuses to perform in the capital of any nation that has diplomatic relations with Franco.
Scientists are not dogmatists. Everything in science is tentative knowledge because scientists are constantly trying to improve their knowledge of their disciplines. Dogmas, on the other hand, are religious doctrines based on no empirical evidence. But people are obliged to believe them because they are supposed to surrender their minds to infallible popes, et al.
Please permit me to correct an error that I made in my previous letter on this subject. The Roman Catholic Church actually took something less than 200 years to acknowledge that Galileo's support of the Copernican theories was based on irrefutable evidence. It did not take 400 years to discard Ptolemy, although Ptolemy agreed with the Bible, as I said. In the spirit of science and the philosophy of Humanism I freely acknowledged my error and hope it will be forgiven by those religious fanatics whom it may have disturbed.
Long live humanity and the freedom of the mind. The gods are dead!

Updating, Enlarging Drive Urged For Deteriorating Merchant Fleet

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Since World War II the U.S. merchant fleet has been deteriorating and today 96 per cent of imported raw materials arrive in America aboard foreign ships.

The situation is so serious that the new chairman of the U.S. Maritime Commission, Helen D. Bentley, says it is necessary to act now "before our own stupidity and the Russians bury us at sea."

In a Washington speech, Mrs. Bentley said the Russians speak "of the foreign ports they enter and boast of the fact that their seamen serve as ambassadors to the people of other countries, cementing friendship for Russia and advancing the Communist view among the people of foreign lands."

30 Per Cent Goal
The Nixon Administration has indicated it wants at least 30 per cent of the nation's overseas trade handled on American ships by the mid-1970s.

The AFL-CIO at its 1969 convention in Atlantic City bent even further, passing a resolution saying:

"We must aggressively seek a declaration by the administration and Congress that at least 50 per cent of our foreign trade should be carried in American bottoms."

Immediately after World War II, American flag ships carried 57.6 per cent of U.S. foreign trade. By 1968 the figure had dropped to 6.4 per cent. The United States now ranks sixth in the number of cargo ships and fifth in cargo capacity.

Raw Material
Insofar as raw materials are concerned, the United States is almost entirely an importer.

Television sets, yard chairs, stoves, automobiles—almost every item around an American home represents the use of raw materials brought to this country by ships.

The list of most import items is long and impressive. A few and the amount of import in relation to use: bauxite for aluminum, 87 per cent; columbite-tantalite used in aerospace and nuclear activity, 100; chromite for ammunition and jet engines, 100; beryl for sparkplugs, 89; manganese, 99; rubber, 100; tin, 99.98. As of last Aug. 1, the privately operated fleet—scheduled liners and the so-called "tramp" steamers—amounted to 995 vessels.

These included 25 freight-passengers; 655 freighters and 274 tankers.

Costly to Run

And the fleet is old. Seventy per cent of the freighters, 90 per cent of the bulk carriers and 50 per cent of the tankers are more than 20 years old. They are expensive to operate and maintain.

The United States does have a massive reserve mothball fleet of 930 ships. But these are so old that one maritime official estimates that within two or three years only 135 to 150 will be effective.

The figures do not include the so-called runaway fleet—the more than 400 American-owned vessels sailing under foreign flags.

The runaway fleet supposedly is under the "effective control" of the United States in an emergency, but the seagoing labor unions say this hasn't worked during the Vietnam war.

U.S. ship owners register their vessels in other countries where taxes are lower, crews come cheaper and maintenance costs are down.

The shortage problem is particularly reflected in wartime. The United States learned in both Korea and Vietnam that the military shipping service cannot keep up with the nation's needs.

But while the United States has allowed its maritime strength to shrink, the Soviet Union has taken an opposite course.

Spurred by a ship shortage during the 1962 Cuban crisis, Russia has been building merchantmen at the rate of a million deadweight tons a year and today ranks only behind Great Britain and Japan in cargo vessels.

Here is how the major maritime nations line up by Ships and Deadweight Tons (millions):

United Kingdom 1840, 29,917; Japan 1776, 29,220; USSR 1634, 11.9; Liberia 1613, 45.145; Norway 1308, 30,593; United States 967, 15.346.

Deadweight tons is the amount in long tons of cargo, fuel, crew and supplies that a ship can carry.

One maritime administration source said unless we begin to build ships by 1975 the U.S. Merchant Marine's capacity will be down to 9.5 million DWT.

Can the United States overcome its shipping shortage? A spokesman for the Ship Building Council of America says yes.

He said there are 25 yards that could build general ships, including five or six capable of handling the 250,000-ton vessels planned to carry oil from the new Alaska fields.

"Tell the yards what you want—not just for one year—but for say five years," he said, "and if we don't have the capacity we will build additional facilities."

A major problem in revitalizing the U.S. maritime industry is expense. The cost of building ships in the United States is high. As an example, a ship costing $10 million in Japan probably would run $20 million in this country.

At the present time the U.S. government has a shipping subsidy but only 14 scheduled liners share it. The subsidy, totaling about $300 million a year, falls in two categories—operational and construction.

Under the operational subsidy, the government picks up the tab for the difference between U.S. wages and those paid cheaper foreign crews. The construction subsidy permits the government to pay up to 55 per cent of the cost of a vessel.

While there is a difference of opinion on how the United States should revitalize its position, maritime forces say there should be an overall program to cover foreign trade, shipbuilding, the inland waterways and the fisheries.

The Seafarers International Union would like domestic shipping to be under an independent agency but Ben Man, deputy director of the AFL-CIO Maritime Committee, says the National Maritime union wants a Department of Oceans at the cabinet level.

Paul Hall, SIU president, wants the tramp segment of the fleet to have priority in carrying government cargoes but Man comments that "our position is that no one should be given a monopoly."

Man, like Hall, states that the unsubsidized fleet needs direct federal support not tied in with shipping rates.

The opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway in 1959, Hall said, "made the Great Lakes the fourth seacoast of the United States, enabling ocean-going vessels to carry their cargoes from the Atlantic Ocean into the heartland of the American continent."

"At latest count," he continued, "approximately 45 foreign flag ships were carrying foreign commerce to and from Lake Erie ports for every American flag vessel engaged in this trade."

500,000 Stage Rally in Japan Against Wars

Annual Protest Throughout Nation Brings Clashes

TOKYO (AP) — An estimated 500,000 Japanese leftists staged rowdy demonstrations against the Vietnam war throughout the country today. The most serious clashes occurred in Tokyo, where 480 persons were arrested and 20 policemen were injured.

Young leftists also made abortive attempts to set off explosions at two American bases near Tokyo. But most of the radical students used Molotov cocktails against the police.

More than 75,000 policemen had been mobilized, 25,000 of them in Tokyo. Shops and offices closed early, shop windows were boarded up or shattered, and millions hurried to get home before the turnout for the International Antiwar day a four-year-old observance which has never caught on outside Japan.

Railway Station
The big Shinjuku railway station just outside Tokyo was a main target of students who hurled fire bombs and rocks at the buildings and police. Trains in and out of the station were canceled.

The station was the scene of violent attacks during the demonstration a year ago, and the demonstrators caused an estimated $1 million damage.

Reports from Okinawa said an estimated 50,000 persons took part in rallies on the island and others of the Ryukyu chain. About 15,000 demonstrators gathered in Naha to demand the immediate return of Okinawa and the scrapping of the U.S.-Japan security treaty, newsmen said.

While the militant students were fighting the police, the three opposition parties held orderly rallies attended by many thousands.

Possible Selling Of Tax Information Seen as Improper

Congressmen Say Giving Out Data Would Invade Privacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service is considering selling some data collected from tax returns to private businesses, which could—in the opinion of one congressman—encourage an invasion of privacy.

Rep. James O'Hara, D-Mich., says the information also will target the nation's citizenry for tons of junk mail.

O'Hara said in a statement Monday more than a half-dozen firms engaged in direct mail advertising—including the biggest in the industry—are seeking the information.

Among them, he said, are Sears, Roebuck and Co.; Spiegel, Inc.; Associated Merchandising Corp.; American Mail Associates, Inc.; and R. L. Polk and Co., which furnishes mailing lists to various businesses promoting their products through direct mail advertising.

Income Statistics
Since 1960, the IRS has published income statistics for the nation's major metropolitan areas. This year, by using the first three digits of the five-digit zip code taken from every taxpayer's return, it published the information for 827 zip code regions.

The information shows the number of returns and levels of income in each area, and has been made available to other government agencies. It can be purchased by industry or private firms at cost to the government.

Now the IRS is thinking of going further by using all five digits. An IRS spokesman said this would break the information down for 34,000 residential areas across the country.

O'Hara contends the information, when broken down into these smaller areas, some as small as a few city blocks—would be invaluable to direct-mail advertisers. They could use it, he said, to pinpoint moderate and wealthy neighborhoods and not bother with areas where their products would have little appeal.

In a letter to the tax agency O'Hara wrote:

"I question whether it is the business of the Internal Revenue Service to draw targets for commercial interests who can proceed to invade the privacy of citizens who happen to live in moderate or relatively high income areas as identified by the IRS statistics."

The IRS said this would not constitute invasion of privacy because none of the information could be used to identify individuals. Nevertheless, a spokesman said, the proposal is being reviewed by IRS lawyers.

Cost $2,000
The spokesman said the law permits the IRS and other government agencies to publish statistical data and charge a user's fee to private firms or individuals buying it. He said the proposed IRS tables would sell for $2,000.

In a case a few years ago, author Carliss Lamont, sued New York state over his claim the state motor vehicle department violated his rights by selling information he was required by law to file in applying for a driver's license. He lost in the state courts and the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear his appeal.

Despite the legality of it, O'Hara contends the IRS should stick to collecting taxes and let private business collect its own income data.

TV Tape Records Suspected Drunks

SPARKS, Nev. (AP) — Police here have begun using a new television tape recorder to keep a record of crime scenes and the activities of drunk driving suspects at the booking desk.

The all-purpose "videocorder" includes a small television set, camera and video tape recorder.

"It has a thousand uses," says Police Chief Robert Galli.

The $6,000 system is portable and can be set up in minutes at accident or crime scenes.

Mayor Vote Today Last-Minute Charges Cap Atlanta Campaign

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Voters pick the winner today of a fiery race for mayor livened by last-minute charges of campaign irregularity and anti-Semitism.

The city's 218,000 registered voters had a choice between Sam Massell, a Democrat and present vice mayor, and Rodney Cook, a Republican alderman and state legislator.

Retiring Mayor Ivan Allen Jr., a fellow Democrat, had urged Massell to quit the race on the ground that he "badly used his position" during the campaign. Massell struck back Monday at a news conference, declaring:

Money and Power
"Money and power shall not dictate to the electorate."

Massell said he was being opposed by a five-man big business "power pack," including Allen and Cook, because they could not control him and because he is Jewish.

Allen, who did not seek reelection, urged Massell Sunday to withdraw his candidacy because a police captain assigned to his campaign was called on to accompany Massell's brother on fund-raising visits to nightclubs.

Massell replied that his brother had used "bad judgment" but denied any personal wrongdoing.

Negroes who make up nearly 40 per cent of the eligible voters generally were regarded as the key to the election.

In balloting two weeks ago, Massell led Cook by some 4,205 votes but did not receive a majority.

Dr. Horace E. Tate, the city's first black candidate for mayor since Reconstruction, who finished third in the eight-man field two weeks ago, endorsed Cook in the runoff.

Massell was supported by Coretta Scott King, widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and several other Negro leaders.

Nixon Acts to Show He Won't Bow to Pressure

Plans for Nov. 3 Speech Intended to Back Up 'Policy Won't be Made in Streets'

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The reason for deepening concern among politicians and foreign diplomats, including emissaries from Communist countries, over the effect of anti-war demonstrations on President Nixon can be understood only against the ment, the more it may inversely affect his decisions.

The reason this is regarded as the possible reaction of Mr. Nixon to the anti-war demonstrations is his own statement on Sept. 27 that "under no circumstances will I be affected whatever" by the growing anti-war protests.

Answer to Student

Then, on Oct. 13 in a letter to a Georgetown University sophomore, the President explained his much-criticized Sept. 27 kiss-off of the moratorium by saying that, "if a President allowed his course to be set by those who demonstrate, he would betray the trust of all the rest . . . To allow government policy to be made in the streets would destroy the democratic process."

What that implies, in the view of those now worried over Presidential reaction to mounting demonstrations, is that Mr. Nixon will avoid any action that seems to take account of, much less to yield to, "those who demonstrate."

The White House decision to make a premature announcement of Gen. Hershey's retirement and the President's Nov. 3 speech both show how far Mr. Nixon is willing to go to prove that he is not being influenced by what happens on the street.

By this reasoning, a presidential announcement scheduled for Christmas that, say, 100,000 U.S. troops would be withdrawn immediately from Vietnam, might be adversely influenced by street demonstrations in mid-December, as now planned by the anti-war movement.

President Nixon might be unwilling, in other words, to make a major announcement of troop withdrawals right after massive demonstrations whose purpose was to force him to do precisely that. His refusal would also message Hanoi that he, not "those who demonstrate," was in charge.

But what lies ahead on the autumn demonstration calendar is likely to affront the President and affect his decision-making far more than what happened last week. The moratorium was peaceful and partly middle-class. The next demonstration, including a march on Washington, will be under the control of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, known as the "Mobe," dominated by radicals who may court violence.

The President will have a chance to say what he thinks about the Mobe, the moratorium, and the war in Vietnam on Nov. 3. But if he comes to view the demonstrations as a test of will power between himself and the demonstrators, the supremely ironic result may be exactly the opposite of what the demonstrators intend — a tendency by Mr. Nixon to dig in and concentrate on his war opponents at home at the expense of the war in Vietnam.

Faulty Heater Draws Little Chute Firemen

LITTLE CHUTE — A faulty hot water heater which failed to shut off led to a fire run by volunteers to the Marvin Graft residence, N. Buchanan Street, about 11 p.m. Friday.

The pop-off valve on the unit blew, filling the basement with steam. Firemen turned off gas to the heater and rained water lines to release pressure. Had the valve not functioned properly, an explosion could have resulted, firemen said. They remained at the scene about 20 minutes.

To Your Good Health

Children's Headaches Should Not be Ignored

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 6-year-old daughter complains almost every day about headaches. However, mostly she keeps on playing.

The school nurse phoned me about this, too. I took her to the doctor, but he thinks she is just growing up.

I hesitate to give her many aspirins because she vomits very easily and I am afraid the aspirin might be bad for her stomach. Can you help me? — Mrs. F.B.

Children seldom complain of headache. When they do, there usually is a reason. Oh, it's true that occasionally a youngster has heard a lot about headaches around the house and may use a "headache" as an excuse for something. But they usually give themselves away.

Therefore when a child complains of headaches, I am inclined to take it seriously. (I don't see any point in saying that "she is just growing up," unless there's more to the story than I haven't heard.) To find out what really is the matter, you may have to do fair amount of investigating. I would suggest the services of a pediatrician, if there is one in your area.

Infection — particularly of tonsils or sinuses — should be suspected.

Allergy must be considered, too, particularly a food allergy, and that could well fit with her tendency to vomit.

Migraine headache occurs in children, too, and there again the nervous stomach could be part of the pattern.

An electroencephalogram ("brain-wave" test) may be necessary if other clues do not give you an answer. Such a test, also called an EEG, can sometimes disclose a migraine pattern or show whether the headaches are part of some subtle convulsive disorder.

Meantime, if necessary to give modest amounts of aspirin for relief, try giving it with meals, or with a glass of milk, to avoid stomach irritation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Have arthritis. Understand cortisone is excellent for it. If it be, why doesn't a physician give it to one when one needs it? Is it so expensive or what? — Mrs. R.E.M.

The action of cortisone is entirely temporary, and when the effects wear off, the arthritis returns to the way it was before.

If it could be given indefinitely, that would be fine. But unfortunately, in dosage sufficient to relieve arthritis, corti-

Panel to Discuss Student Aid at Kimberly School

KIMBERLY — Financial aid available to students for further education will be explained to juniors, seniors and their parents at a 7:30 p.m. meeting Thursday in the senior high school commons.

Panel members will include Richard Tift, assistant director of financial aid at Oshkosh State University; William Ihlenfeldt, financial aid director of the Appleton Technical Institute, and Robert Koller, director of financial aid for St. Norbert College. The program is scheduled to conclude about 9 p.m. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Speakers will explain how need for financial aid is determined, procedures used to apply for aid, who receives aid, where it comes from, what form it takes and where it can be used. Each will discuss how it applies to his school — private, public and vocational. A question-and-answer period will follow. The program is being arranged by the guidance department of the school to enable students and parents to plan for future education.

Power Stopped for Part of Green Bay

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau GREEN BAY — Electrical service to part of downtown Green Bay was interrupted for about 25 minutes shortly after noon Saturday when a steel beam fell across a 12,000-volt power line near the Wisconsin Public Service Corp.'s main office.

An abandoned gas reservoir was being torn down when the wind caught a beam, swinging it across the power line.

Not Enough Known About Effects of Marijuana to Sort Facts From Fiction

Nearly everyone has heard fables, fictions, or fallacies about marijuana, perhaps like these:

"Smoke pot and you wind up hooked on heroin. . . Man, it's cleaner than alcohol. . . It's the first step right into the psycho ward. . . There's just no reason to keep it illegal. . . Why doesn't anyone tell the truth about marijuana?"

None of these statements is based on scientific fact, but on half-fact or misinformation.

The first statement, although wrong, stems from some studies showing that sizeable percentages of heroin addicts previously smoked marijuana (pot). The reverse is not necessarily true, although this adds no reasoning to the side of those who favor unrestricted marijuana.

Alcohol and marijuana are not comparable, as far as No. 2 goes. Moreover, the long-term effects of marijuana smoking are simply not known as yet.

Not Proven

As to No. 3, scientists have not proved that marijuana is a direct cause of mental illness. Nor have they proved that it prevents mental disorders or helps mental health.

There are some reasons on the legal side for restrictions on marijuana, as, for example, the indisputable fact that science does not know very much about it. It does not appear, moreover, that mass, permissive, total population usage of an unknown but powerful mind-affecting drug is rational.

"Why doesn't anyone tell the truth about marijuana?"

This despairing kind of cry is perhaps based on confusion brought about by those who favor taking all shackles off marijuana and who disseminate misinformation or slanted material rather than objective information.

Here are some facts about this controversial substance, entirely founded on what science now knows, not on guesses, rumors, and wishful emotionalizing.

The smoking of marijuana is illegal in nearly every civilized country of the world. Nevertheless, with the possible exception of alcohol, it is today probably the most widely used intoxicant in the world.

Despite its current pervasiveness, scientists are quick to acknowledge significant gaps in their knowledge of marijuana's effects on man — and animals, weed, and Mary Jane.

How is it used?

For use as a drug, the leaves and flowers are usually dried and crushed or chopped into small pieces. This green-colored product is rolled and smoked in cigarettes or pipes or can be sniffed or taken in food. Its sweetish odor is easily recognized. The smoke is harsh; it smells like burnt rope or dried grasses.

Not a Medicine

Is marijuana used for medical purposes?

No. It has no known use in modern medicine. There are medical research studies seeking scientific information on it, but it is not used to treat or cure illness.

Statements that marijuana is "medically safe" are not supported by scientific evidence.

Do we know what marijuana does to the mind and body?

We do not know the physical effects fully. Long-term effects are absolutely unknown. The kind of research needed to learn the results of continued use has not yet been done. It is getting under way now, however, as pointed out.

Does marijuana affect judgment?

Isolate Compounds

This long-standing problem seems at last to have been largely solved. National Institute of Mental Health research grantees and others have succeeded in isolating a number of compounds in cannabis, the plant from which marijuana cigarette material comes.

In addition, they have determined the exact structure of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), the probable main, active principle of marijuana. Thus, the production of uniform, synthetic or man-made marijuana is now possible.

With this compound, THC, sometimes called "liquid marijuana," scientists can at last run controlled, uniform experiments.

Very early work showed that the compound would be useful not only in laboratory studies but also in careful investigations in humans.

Questions and Answers

Basic research using synthetic marijuana compounds, along with a broad spectrum of clinical studies, is being supported and stimulated by the National Institute of Mental Health. This is a part of an invigorated attack on narcotic and drug abuse through research, training, services, and education.

Some other facts about marijuana which every citizen, old and young, needs to know have already been established. Here are some questions often asked and answers to them.

What is marijuana?

Marijuana is a drug found in a plant (cannabis sativa) that grows in mild climate countries and many complaints have been received on hazards to students. Motorists previously did not have to stop on County OO. Police have been issuing only warnings for violations but will begin making arrests soon, Nechodom said.

The four-way stop is a temporary safety measure. Plans are being drawn to revise the intersection next spring.

There are federal and state laws — and international laws — dealing with marijuana. Possession or sale of it in the U. S. is a felony under federal law. Many states deal with marijuana as severely as if it were a narcotic.

Many feel that the laws should be changed; many others do not. In any case, young and old alike should know these and other facts.

Motorists Reminded Of 4-Way Stop Sign

LITTLE CHUTE — Police Chief Robert Nechodom has issued a warning to motorists about a new four-way stop sign at Outagamie County trunks N and OO.

The intersection is near the site of the public high school, she said. A second injection is necessary for full protection if the person did not have flu vaccine last year.

State Funds Sought to Save River Lands in Menominee

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — In one of its final actions, the Menominee Indian Study Committee has recommended that the state appropriate $740,000 to continue state leasing of Wolf River bank lands for the next three years or until the federal government comes through with the cash for its promised wild river program.

The action came as it recommended to the 1969 State Legislature that Menominee County be continued as a county and the former Indian reservation not be changed to any other status now that its 10-year trial period is concluding.

The committee also asked the Legislature to approve the study group's transformation into a Wisconsin Indian Study Committee to work with any of the other 10 Wisconsin Indian tribes which might desire state assistance.

At the finance committee hearing, LaFave said his committee has asked for higher payments during the next three years than those made under the lease that is expiring because Menominee County needs extra assistance to make up for expected reductions in federal grants, as for its school program.

John A. Lawton, former legal counsel to the Indians and a conservationist, told legislators

Two Involved in Fast Chase Are Charged

Jacoby, Walters Set in Jail, Await Total of 7 Counts

Two young Appleton men who police allege figured in a high-speed chase in a stolen car early Saturday, were charged with a total of seven counts Monday afternoon.

Richard E. Jacoby, 23, 1406 W. Kamps Ave., the alleged driver of the car that was involved in an accident during the chase, was charged with taking a car without the owner's consent, reckless driving, driving 59 miles per hour in a 25-zone, attempting to elude police and driving after his license was revoked.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer found Jacoby indigent and appointed Atty. James Bayargeon at county expense. Bonds were set totaling $1,850.

James W. Walters, 23, 932 W. Lawrence St., was charged with taking a car without the owner's consent and attempting to elude police. His bond was set at $1,600. He told the court he has the financial gains that could come from a 5- or 10-year periodic renegotiation of the lease price based on new market values rather than a long-term, flat rate set in the initial contract.

However, the State Department of Natural Resources refused to back that position.

Temporary Measure

The legislation, immediately sent to the joint finance committee for introduction, boosts the stop-gan lease price paid by the state for the bank lands until the federal program can be carried out.

That state program was started two years ago and will be stopped immediately if the federal wild river program takes over the Wolf River preservation program as planned.

The finance committee took no immediate action.

Police & Fire Beat

Allen J. Goodearle, 22, 914 Winona Way, Appleton, was the pain of the Senso auto. Mrs. treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital Senso was taken to Kaukauna Monday afternoon for knee abrasions and a back injury he suffered when his car was struck in the left side by an auto driven by Diane Smith, 118 E. North St., who was driving out of a store parking lot onto the 700 block of W. Wisconsin Avenue. Goodearle was east-bound.

COMBINED LOCKS — Marsha Dorschner, 19, 802 Durkee St., Appleton, suffered bumps and bruises when the car in which she was a passenger, driven by Douglas Gerlach, 19, 641 Broad St., Menasha, struck a utility pole and went off the road about 3 a.m. Sunday.

Gerlach told police he was driving west in the 300 block of Prospect Street when he approached a car without headlights. In attempting to avoid the car, he said, his vehicle skidded off the road.

KAUKAUNA — The theft of a $25 coat from a locker at Kaukauna High School was reported to police by Mrs. LeRoy Lutzow, 129 E. Tobacnoir St.

KAUKAUNA — Mrs. Guy Senso, 521 Green St., complained of a sore neck and bump on her head after the car in which she was riding with her husband was involved in an accident in the 100 block of W. Wisconsin Avenue about 10:20 a.m. Saturday.

According to police, Senso was driving east on Wisconsin when a car driven by Ernest Buetow, 58, 61 Draper St.,

Football 100 Years Old — Still Kicking

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 Channels 2-7 — CBS takes its football telecasting seriously, so seriously that the new division has devoted a full hour to the game and its effects on Americana. Titled Football: One Hundred Years Old and Still Kicking, the program is a montage of historical data, gridiron thrills, the passions aroused in spectators and players, on and off the field, and the actual benefits derived, physical, mental and spiritual, from participation in the game. Some of the show's features are a 1903 film clip of a college game, made by Charles Edison; Knute Rockne doing the thing he's credited for developing, the half-time pep talk, and the invasion of a locker room to see and hear the players and their reactions to the game.

7:30-9 Channels 11-9 — According to ABC, Gus Monk, the hero of Movie of the Week's feature, "Monk," is "today's man . . . he roams from place to place, takes a job if he likes it, if not he moves on." George Maharis plays the part, an independent cuss who refuses the request of an attorney to hold an envelope with information on the underground. He winds up neck deep in a murder and the rackets.

8-10 Channel 5 — The first World Premiere presentation of the season is "The Lonely Profession," on Tuesday Night At the Movies. It has a bright cast, several locations and plenty of action, all of which covers up a rather large lack of story. Harry Guardino is the detective whose pretty client, the former mistress of a high finance type, is murdered, and the private eye is suspect. Now he must find out who did it to save his own skin, and he turns up a raft of prospects. These include: Dina Merrill, his wife; Troy Donahue, her boy friend; Dean Jagger, the business manager.

7-7:30 Channel 5 — When in doubt, swing, which is exactly what Debbie does on The Debbie Reynolds Show. She is fearful that a bruising hockey player who her husband has insulted in print will be seeking revenge.

6:30-7:30 Channels 11-9 — Love is certainly smiting this time period, with Linc on The Mod Squad the other victim. Janet MacLachlan plays the light in his eyes, and Linc is dead serious about her. He wants to make their relationship permanent until he learns of the other man in her life, a revelation that appeals to his policeman's sense as well.

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — Jelly gets in hot water on Lancer when the cattle bust through a fence and cut up an alfalfa patch. But that's nothing compared to the trouble ahead. The reason for his neglect is romance. Jelly has stars in his eyes and cologne in his whiskers.

7:30-8 Channel 5 — Diahann Carroll, as Julia gets to do her real thing, singing "Just In Time." Gary Crosby guests as the leader of a group playing in town. Julia is asked to renew an old acquaintance with him to get some tickets to his sold-out concert.

7:30-8:30 Channels 2-7 — Ed Sullivan takes over The Red Skelton Show, but only long enough to introduce the star from the audience. Red's guests are Kaye Ballard and Paul Revere and the Raiders. The show's feature is Kay as a clerk in the motor vehicle bureau, trying to help Willie Lump slightly shot down

Carol Burnett, Skelton Shows Only Sparklers

Bright Comedy Sketches Scarce, Most Have Slipped Into Television Doldrums

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — Hollywood producers and directors have learned how to dress up musical numbers for an endless stream of television variety hours, but most slip into doldrums in the comedy sketch department.

"The Carol Burnett Show," breezing along in its fourth season, is, along with "The Red Skelton Show," exceptional in that it specializes in sketches and adds musical numbers mostly for a change of pace. The hour is entertaining and has a friendly informal atmosphere. On Monday Carol had her usual strong support from Harvey Korman, a fine sketch actor, and an extra assist from Tim Conway, a funny little guy. Conway sparkled particularly as a 91-year-old Lothario in a sketch that satirized the slow and improbable pace of daytime soap operas.

Ken Berry, seen earlier in the evening playing solid Sam Brown in "Mayberry, R.F.D.," put on his dancing shoes to guest on the show and uncorked a thoroughly acceptable singing voice in a couple of numbers with the star.

As if Lana Turner and her "Survivors" on ABC didn't have enough to contend with, NBC on Monday scheduled her 1961 film "By Love Possessed" to compete with Tracy Carville's dramatic reunion—they were fencing—with the father of her child.

ABC's extravagant excursion into evening soap opera first ran into tough production problems and now languishes in the bottom third of the Nielsen list. In the most recent ratings, the show is in 59th position, tied gangster's life too hard on the nerves.

with another disappointment, NBC's "Andy Williams Show," in a roster of 80.

Estimates of audiences for the week of Oct. 6-12 show CBS overtaking NBC for the lead in the averages for the first time this season. CBS had 18.5, with NBC at 17.7 and ABC 16.9.

Some Surprises

The new list had some happy surprises for ABC. Its "Movie of the Week" was in first place, followed by NBC's "Laugh-in." "Marcus Welby, M.D." Robert Young's new doctor show on ABC, was third followed by the network's broadcast of the feature film, "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines."

As the season settles down, it appears that NBC's "Bill Cosby Show"—fifth on the list—is holding its position handily, primarily at the expense of CBS's "Ed Sullivan Show," in 49th.

CBS's "Gunsmoke," NBC's "Bonanza," CBS's "Jackie Gleason Show," "The Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour" and "Family Affair," tied with NBC's Disney hour make up the rest of the front-running shows.

Heating Plant at UW-GB Delayed For Three Months

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Development of a heating plant planned for the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay was delayed Monday for at least three months as the state joined the cooperative effort to curb the nation's inflationary spiral.

In a move criticized by Democrats, the State Building Commission agreed to delay awarding construction contracts on the UWGB plant and a list of similar projects until at least January.

The projects had been planned for award during the three-month quarter, lasting from October through December, 1969.

The $4.7 million Green Bay heating plant and the other delayed projects will be considered for possible development during the three-month fiscal quarter, starting in January, the commission agreed. But the projects could be delayed again as well, it added.

The building cutback, denounced by the two Democrats on the commission as fraudulent, was taken as a part of a cooperative effort informally agreed to by the states to help curb inflation.

Nixon Request
President Richard Nixon requested the state building cut as an effort toward slowing inflation. He told the National Governor's Conference late last summer that the states must act because they control the most sizable share of public construction spending in the nation.

The Wisconsin cutback plan was agreed to by the commission after the state building agency heard a report from State Secretary of Administration Wayne McGown on a conference of state building officials with federal authorities last week in Washington.

McGown said the conference brought out that all states are experiencing about a 25 per cent delay in building programs because of design slowdowns, inflationary problems, construction shipups and other problems.

The state officials agreed at the Washington meeting that states should aim toward a 25 per cent building program deferral as a part of the national anti-inflationary drive.

in the listing were an Adult Reception and Treatment Center for the prison system at $8.9 million and $9.4 million in state university dormitories.

That system has about 3,000 empty dormitory beds and doesn't need new dormitories at present, Grover said.

The commission said the slowdown was being carried out in short range steps because of a possible economic slowdown in the near future.

However, the commission turned around and voted to construct a $10.7 million communications arts building on the University of Wisconsin Madison campus, despite the objections of assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah.

Martin Objection
Martin protested that the building was far more costly than similar structures in the state university system when $3.1 million of electrical, heating and air conditioning equipment needed for radio and television facilities were removed.

The authorized price of the building is $9.4 million, he said. University officials replied that the extra $1.3 million would be covered from gift funds, and state engineering officials said that inflationary increases would wipe out any savings that could be made in a yearlong redesign of the building planned since 1964.

The vote to proceed was 5-3. The commission also delayed for a month consideration of a Oshkosh State University stadium, which had been stalled two weeks ago.

Junior Women Meet for Fall Conference

The Embassy Motor Lodge was the setting Saturday for the 1969 Wisconsin Junior Woman's Fall Conference, which opened with registration at 8 a.m. After a 9 a.m. call to order by Mrs. Edward Gruetner, Beloit, the Rev. Ernest Heeren, First Congregational Church, gave the invocation and the Xavier High School Drill Team presented the colors.

The group was welcomed by State Senator Gerald Lorge and the Appleton Junior Woman's Glee Club. The 1970-72 Junior projects, presented by Mrs. James Weber, New London, included Wisconsin Association for Retarded Children, Mendota's Woman's Club, Mendota's Fashion Nook and Winnebago Fashion Corner. Mrs. Joseph McIlree, Oshkosh, was nominated for state Junior director.

After a 12:30 p.m. luncheon, Mrs. Roger Coenen, eighth district Junior director, gave the invocation. Members of the Appleton Glee Club entertained and Mrs. Ronald Kaboord, "Mrs. Wisconsin," spoke on, "To Federation With Love."

Hostesses for the conference were members of the Appleton, Green Bay and Hortonville clubs. Mrs. Leonard Schimke, Appleton, and Mrs. Coenen, Hortonville, were co-chairmen.

Mrs. Orville Heine and Mrs. William Hays, both of Milwaukee, present a puppet show on conservation of natural resources to the Saturday conference. At right, Mrs. John Lundberg, registration chairman, greets Mrs. Roger Everhardt, Green Bay, and Mrs. James Olson, Hortonville. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Chatting Together before luncheon was served at the Wisconsin Junior Woman's Club conference are Mrs. David Weiland, Mrs. Edward Grutzner, Beloit; Mrs. Sam Abramson, Shorewood; Mrs. Roger Coenen, Hortonville, and Mrs. Ronald Kaboord, at center, "Mrs. Wisconsin," who spoke during the afternoon session.

Mr. Blackwell Vetoes 'Natural Look'

BY LINDA DEUTSCH
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "It is cruel for a designer to ask a woman over 30 not to wear a bra," declared Mr. Blackwell as he unveiled his new spring couture collection. "It's a sick trend and I think it should stop."

The flamboyant designer-fashion critic thumbed his nose at the "natural" trend Monday with his most feminine collection in years. It included fitted coats, sculptured gowns, and even the return of the sheath dress. All bodices definitely have bras.

"All this faddist stuff is not for me," said Mr. Blackwell—that is his professional name. His first name is Richard. His own suit in beige corduroy was more subdued than his usual flashy attire.

The tone of his collection is softly elegant with flowing cap and coats over sheath gowns. A new touch for evening is the sleeveless full length satin coat over matching short-sleeved satin dress with bead trim.

Like others in this week's California Fashion Creators showing, Blackwell draws on fashion history. He brings back the chemise of the 20s, pussy-cat bows of the 40s—an enormous beaded bow forms the bodice of a bold print gown—and the sheaths of the 1950s.

But his forte remains the elaborate, flowing evening gown—this time a lime and pink daisy print silk with a five-foot-long billowing cape-train. He calls the dress "the little princess."

Following the trend of femininity without frills there's not a ruffle in sight.

Malia of Hawaii showcased wide patio pants, hostess gowns and flowing muumuus—all in bright tropical prints that have become a West Coast signature. Malia hides little printed bikinis under flair pants and tunics—a hint at the covered-up look ahead in swimwear.

The Blackwell and Malia collections followed showings of five dress designers who predicted "a renaissance of romance" in the decade ahead. Flounces, flared "skater" skirts, long midcalf silk print dresses and yards of rustling silk scarves pointed the way to the future.

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM

Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, or your waistline is larger than 32 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A feather-stitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation. "Suddenly Slim," in both girdle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga. They are available at H. C. Prange Co. and other stores with fashion spirit.

Partner's Timid Bid May be Best

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

In the ideal bridge session you not only beat your opponents badly but also prove that your partner would be a terrible handicap to anybody less gifted than you. Even in the best of partnerships each player has a secret desire to show up his jack of spades. West then partner; and sometimes that desire is far from secret. West led the jack of clubs, and South ruffed. He sneered at his partner's timid bidding (quite unjustly, of course) and tried to show that North somehow or other should have suggested a slam. South led out the ace and king of spades, and his game contract thereupon went right out of the window. South didn't know that he was already dead, and he proceeded to dig his grave a little deeper by leading the queen of spades next. When the trumps failed to break favorably, South was in great danger. He could still recover if the diamonds broke 2-2, but the ace of king of diamonds failed to clear the suit. Now South had no more tricks.

Your Problems

He Prays for Saint's Patience, Endurance

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The gal who sent in "The Secretary's Prayer" asked for an opportunity to tell it like it is. I demand equal time. Will you please print an "Executive's Prayer?" Thank you very much. — Chicago

Dear Lord: Give me the patience of a saint and the ability to endure my secretary's knack for confusion. Help me keep calm when she reminds me of my morning appointments — after lunch. Give me the strength. Heavenly Father, to keep my anger in check when she takes 30 minutes for a mid-morning coffee break while I take phone messages from her friends. I realize that nobody's perfect, but help me, dear Lord, to keep my cool when she hands me a letter to the company president with two erasures, two strikeouts, and a misspelled word. I need extra strength, Heavenly Father, to hold my tongue when she orders her groceries and makes hair appointments on my private phone which is reserved for incoming, long distance calls. I realize that assault and battery is against the law, dear Lord, so please restrain my hand so that I may not do violence. Amen. — The Boss

Dear Boss: I believe in prayer but if it's as bad as it sounds you need to look in the want ads — between prayers, of course.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My brother was married in 1957. Gordon had a wonderful job and a promising future. He climbed the ladder of success rapidly, and his family life was fine — two lovely children.

Late in May Gordon's wife went to Europe and took the youngsters. They were gone nearly ten weeks. During that time Gordon became involved with a woman — a friend of his wife's no less. It was no love affair, just raw sex. They met at his place or hers — never where anyone could see them. A week before his family returned from Europe, Gordon told me he couldn't sleep from guilt. He asked me if he should confess to his wife. I told him yes. Instead of forgiving Gordon, his wife threw him out and filed for divorce. He is now living in a small efficiency apartment, paying alimony and support.

I just loved your wonderful "forgive and forget" column. I sent it to my sister-in-law but she never answered. Don't you think it is heartless of her not to give her husband a second chance? Please say so. — Sad Sis

Dear Sis: Of course it's heartless and I feel sorry for Gordon, but it's too bad Gordon didn't ask me for advice instead of you. I would have told him to keep his mouth shut. He could have unloaded his guilt on a clergyman, vowed never to cheat again and been a happily married man today.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You missed the point of Bonnie's letter. Maybe Mendel doesn't like to eat dinner at his in-laws' house three nights a week. If Bonnie was any kind of a newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

"Knock off the key rattling, Bub. It sounds like you're anxious to go home." It's plain that she is overly obligated to her parents because she imposes on them so much.

You should have told Bonnie to get some of her mother's recipes and start acting like a wife. — Irvington, N. Y.

Dear Irv: You're right. I missed the point. Thanks for hauling me up short.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

FVTI Assured It Will Receive Federal Funds

Amount, Timing Uncertain

The Fox Valley Technical Institute (FVTI) will be one of four vocational projects in the state to receive federal funds this fiscal year, it was revealed this morning by Harold Schantz, state supervisor of vocational facilities.

Schantz admitted this morning that the amount of money pending the approval by Congress, which is expected to enact budget legislation in late October or early November.

The fact that the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 (VTE-12) board has not waited for the federal funds to help construct the school has been the major area of contention with Appleton Mayor George Buckley, who recently filed petitions containing 1,076 names, calling for a referendum on the building.

This morning, after hearing of the news that FVTI would be one of four project up for funding, Buckley said, "We could end up with $99.99."

"I would rather wait until we have concrete assurance of the availability and amount. Show me a copy of a letter from the federal government that says we are going to get this money. 'This is the way I feel about it and this is the way the voters would feel about it too, I'm sure.'"

Schantz did not say when the funds would be released to the district, stating that the timing was up to the state board.

This has been an area which has caused hard feeling on the part of the VTE-12 board, which Monday decided to turn to the elected representatives to find out where on the priority list the district stood in receiving the funds.

Funds for building a district facility usually are based on progress of plans. Until a few months ago, VTE-12 was immediately after Waukesha on the priority list. Waukesha already has started to build a vocational facility.

The figures were released at a report meeting by Robert Cisma, executive director, and John Stendel, campaign chairman.

In a breakdown of the nine divisions, construction has raised $14,478, or 85 per cent of the $17,000 goal; large firms, $168,400, or 70 per cent of the $240,000 goal; professional, $5,103, or 28.4 per cent of $18,000; public civic, $6,352, or 20.4 per cent of $31,000; general solicitation, $5,890, or 31.8 per cent of $18,500; mercantile, $1,411, or 8.6 per cent of $16,500; commercial, $3,551, or 13.2 per cent of $27,000; industrial, $670, or 7 per cent of $9,500; and general business, $45, or 1.8 per cent of $2,500.

The next report meeting will be at noon Monday at the Appleton Family YMCA.

tures on petitions calling for the referendum.

The board also directed Sirk and Russell Williams, the board's attorney, to study the mechanics of a referendum, more ad 2 to 10.

"We have not had time to go over all of the names yet," Sirk told the board, adding that many certainly need to be checked further."

"For example there are a number of towns in our area which are split into two districts. We must be certain that the signers in those towns are in our district," he explained.

"Signed for Husband"

Other apparent discrepancies were mentioned by Williams. "There are a number of signatures where it appears that the wife signed for her husband and this is illegal on a petition," he said.

He also pointed out that at the bottom of each petition the circulator has a certified the Plan Commission Compromises Housing Project May be Speeded Up

The construction timetable for the Appleton housing project for the elderly may have gained rather than lost Monday, as a result of what initially appeared to be a major setback dealt by the city council plan commission.

Commissioners voted Monday to delay their decision on an ordinance that is needed before a building permit for the project can be issued. Present zoning and building regulations lack a category that would allow the 150-unit high-rise apartment building to be built.

However, in a confrontation after the commission meeting, members of the commission and the housing authority worked out a compromise. Besides satisfying the strongest objections to the proposed ordinance, the compromise could take effect quicker than the original proposal.

A special meeting of the planning commission was called this morning by Planning Director Jack Hetu to consider the compromise next Tuesday. The measure could go next to the common council Nov. 5 for action, speeding rather than delaying the housing project.

Right to Ignore

The originally proposed ordinance, commission member Ralph Gertsch warned, would give any future developer working for the housing authority the right to ignore building and zoning regulations.

Aiming a blistering attack at the housing authority, Gertsch said many aldermen believe that the city "created a monster" in the authority, and Public Works Director Robert Miller said the requested ordinance would amount to "giving (future developers) a license to steal."

Gertsch first suggested denying the request, then proposed waiting until the next commission meeting and asking the opinion of City Atty. David Geenan. The motion to delay passed.

After the meeting was adjourned, housing authority members and a representative of the developer, Hutter Construction Co., Fond du Lac, arrived at City Hall.

At first angered that the commission acted without waiting for them, they then conferred with Gertsch and agreed to try the compromise route.

Substitute Resolution

The ordinance amendment is to be dropped, and in its place, will be substituted a resolution applying specifically to the planned housing project. Future projects would have to pass independent scrutiny.

The resolution could take effect immediately after council adoption while an ordinance amendment takes nearly two months to become effective. The housing authority has been aiming for a Dec. 1 ground breaking for the controversial building, a 10-story structure to be built on the south bank of the Fox River near E. College and Waller avenues.

Hetu said the Hutter firm cannot build the structure without the special waiver.

Special Request

The requested waiver would apply to all existing requirements "relating to lot area, lot width, floor area, ratios, yards and off-street parking" for any public housing project for the elderly built "for or by" the housing authority, Hetu said.

A "cooperation agreement," some aldermen have told him that "they feel we have created a monster." Records show that Gertsch, an alderman until last spring, was on the council and present Aug. 7, 1968, when the cooperation agreement passed unanimously.

completed and accepted by the authority. Until then, it will be considered a private development by Hutter, Hetu said.

Gertsch reminded the commission that in an earlier controversy over the project site, it was stated the cooperation agreement gave the housing authority power to use the site it chooses whether the commission and council approved.

As a result, said Gertsch, some aldermen have told him that "they feel we have created a monster." Records show that Gertsch, an alderman until last spring, was on the council and present Aug. 7, 1968, when the cooperation agreement passed unanimously.

Gun Wounds Fatal to Boy

Robert Scofield Dies Three Days After Being Shot

OSHKOSH — A 15-year-old boy who spent the weekend in critical condition at Mercy Medical Center here died of gunshot wounds at 7:30 a.m. today.

Winnebago County Coroner Art C. Miller said an autopsy would be conducted on the body of Robert Scofield, son of Mrs. Grace Scofield, 912 School Ave., to determine which size bullet killed him.

Scofield, who was unarmed, was with four companions hunting in a woods off State 21 near Omro when the accident occurred at about 3 p.m. Saturday, according to county police.

The youth apparently stepped onto a log and into the line of fire as three of his companions shot at a bird, police said.

Second Manganese Deposit Found on Floor of Green Bay

Post-Crescent News Service

MADISON — Manganese deposits of exceptionally high quality are lying on the floor of Green Bay in the Sturgeon Bay area.

Disclosure of the treasure found by a research team last summer was made here Monday by a University of Wisconsin scientist.

He said the Sturgeon Bay samplings run much richer in manganese content than those discovered in 1968 along the bay's western shoreline north of Marinette.

But Dr. Robert P. Meyer, professor of geology and geophysics, declined to estimate the extent of the new finding or to speculate on its value.

"We have not completed our studies," he said.

Despite the absence of even an educated guess about commercial prospects, Meyer's announcement was exciting news for the University of Wisconsin's second annual Sea Grant Conference.

At the first conference a year ago, the initial Green Bay discovery was announced by another UW marine geologist, Dr. J. Robert Moore.

Moore calculated at the time that the Manganese in just the first foot of the deposit was worth about $15 million. At some points, he said, the deposit may be 10 feet deep.

Manganese is a relatively scarce metallic element. It is used in the production of high grade steel and other alloys, and has various other important applications in industry.

"This is an example of what we can expect to come up with under our sea grant program," Monday's conference was advised by Dr. Robert A. Ragotzke, director of the UW marine studies center. He is coordinator of the sea grant work which was begun over two years ago with the first emphasis on Green Bay.

Systematic samplings of the bay bottom were made by University of Wisconsin researchers and graduate students working from the Coast Guard cutter Mesquite.

"You remember the excitement that resulted from the finding last year," Meyer remarked.

"The richest area of that discovery was in Michigan waters from Menominee to Escanaba, but now we have found something even better in the Sturgeon Bay area, which is Wisconsin waters."

In the 1968 samplings, the manganese appears in pellets ranging up to the side of birdshot. Content of the mineral runs between 2 and 17 per cent, averaging about 8 to 8 per cent.

This is considered quite good from a commercial standpoint, but the Sturgeon Bay finding promises to be much better.

"The nodules we found this year run up to 80 per cent manganese, and up to a half-inch in diameter," Meyer said.

Although carefully avoiding any hint as to the actual area, pending analysis and recording of all the samples taken, Meyer expressed speculation that similar findings might be made elsewhere in the Great Lakes.

What about the commercial prospects for Green Bay's manganese? Meyer referred the reporter to Moore, who was in the audience.

"About eight corporations are ready to dump big money into this thing, but they need the protection of a license or permit," Moore replied.

Sex Education Up to School?

Teachers Likely to Request State to Leave Issue Alone

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Wisconsin Education Association, largest and most influential spokesman for professional schoolmen in the state, is expected to demand at its November convention that the issue of sex education in the curriculum of local schools be left to the judgment of officials of the local school districts.

Resolutions prepared for the association's annual convention in Milwaukee early next month include one that declares that the Legislature should not be involved in such decisions.

Bills to abolish or restrict sex education in school are among the hottest of the controversial matters before the Legislature that is now in session.

Present law on the subject is broad, and in effect makes such teaching a matter of local school board decision.

Says the proposed resolution: "The association believes that sex education which provides children and youth with information appropriate to their age is basic to healthy, well-adjusted mental attitudes. It also believes that the public school must assume an increasingly important role in providing this instruction, and that teachers must be qualified to teach in this area."

"The association urges that courses in sex education be developed with care and that classroom teachers who teach the courses be legally protected against irresponsible censorship."

On other major policy proposals, committees of the association will ask that:

Local governments impose more severe penalties for school vandalism and against individuals leading or encouraging activities harmful to education within a school.

The WEA express its concern "with evidence of discrimination against women" and demand that local school boards provide equal opportunities for appointment and promotion without regard to sex.

The WEA promulgate a minimum starting salary rule of $10,500 for qualified degree teachers, and that experienced teachers with a master's degree should range at least to $21,000 followed by continuing schedule increases for career teachers of advanced qualifications.

United Fund Over Halfway Toward Goal

With about a week and a half left, a little more than 54 per cent, $205,818, of the $380,000 United Fund goal has been reached.

The figures were released Monday at a report meeting by Robert Cisma, executive director, and John Stendel, campaign chairman.

In a breakdown of the nine divisions, construction has raised $14,478, or 85 per cent of the $17,000 goal; large firms, $168,400, or 70 per cent of the $240,000 goal; professional, $5,103, or 28.4 per cent of $18,000; public civic, $6,352, or 20.4 per cent of $31,000; general solicitation, $5,890, or 31.8 per cent of $18,500; mercantile, $1,411, or 8.6 per cent of $16,500; commercial, $3,551, or 13.2 per cent of $27,000; industrial, $670, or 7 per cent of $9,500; and general business, $45, or 1.8 per cent of $2,500.

Information Lack Holds Up School Drug Use Instruction

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

There is no textbook on drugs, and the teachers know almost nothing about them.

This, says G. A. Ediger, head of the Appleton high schools' biology departments, is the dilemma that he and his staff face in developing a drug information unit in sophomore biology classes this fall.

Administrators last spring requested the unit on the physiological effects of drugs as LSD and marijuana, which many high school students are experimenting with.

This is the first official attempt to develop such a unit, and Ediger admits he is at a loss. The best they can do, he says, is use pamphlets, many which offer conflicting medical evidence on the drugs' effects.

Questions on Marijuana

While evidence is fairly conclusive on the dangers of LSD, there is questions about the effects of marijuana.

There have been unofficial efforts to educate Appleton youngsters on drugs. Several teachers, particularly those at Madison Junior High, have included discussions of drugs in their science classes.

Madison ninth grade government class teacher A. G. West has gone even further. He has stimulated interest in drugs for a group of about 20 Madison students and they have met after school to delve into the subject.

Although some teachers feel information only prods the curiosity of youngsters to use drugs, West believes a program of educating students on drugs at the junior high level should be instituted.

"I think it is a good idea to get the problem out here," he says. "You won't have to worry about it in high school."

West has directed his group toward the social, physical and psychological effects of drugs. "If students are an alternative of their going to a show or a dance, instead of a pot party," he says, "they will stay away from drugs."

Madison administrators and teachers also have experimented in a drug information program which is to be used at the other three junior high schools this year to try the program.

New Pamphlets

Ediger and his staff have been searching for materials for several weeks but about a dozen pamphlets to date are a few pamphlets by a few so-called experts, he says.

"We're in the process of structuring this," he says. "We feel we need to get this in front of the kids somehow."

"We can teach them to leave it alone but they still will have to make their own decisions," he adds.

Ediger says the recent drug unit shown to several schools by a Green Bay television station "is a good start," but more education is needed to follow through.

The hope, he says, is to show students what the actual effects of drugs are on the organs, physical condition and mental makeup.

About 40 classes of Appleton East and West students, or 950 to 1,000 students, will be given the class. The idea is to contact a serviceman.

Theft Not a Theft, Police Discover

The Harold Eggerts went shopping Saturday afternoon. They purchased two winter coats from a downtown department store. They put the coats in the green, 1969 Buick four-door parked in the 100 block of N. Division Street. Eggert locked the car and he and his wife left to do more shopping.

They returned to the car to find the doors still locked but the coats gone. They reported the "theft" to police.

Two hours later, Gene Selig, 2418 N. Mason St., called police, saying he found two coats in the back seat of his green, 1969 Buick four-door which was parked in the 100 block of N. Division Street.

Selig delivered the coats to the Eggerts.

Ahrens Returns to Appleton

Thumb's Down for Stowaway

BY DON CASTONIA

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton's super stowaway and world traveler has retired his thumb after a last successful trip to England.

Gary Ahrens, son of Mrs. Hulda Ahrens, 309 N. Outagamie St., said, after completing his third successful trip by stowage, he is "retiring" to seek a job as a commercial artist and to write a book about his travels.

Ahrens gained fame for his only unsuccessful effort early in July when he stowed away in the luggage compartment of a Pan American Airways jet at O'Hare Field in Chicago. He was caught when the plane landed in London, England, and returned to this country.

Determined to see the British Isles, Gary turned to the seas and spent nearly two months touring England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales by way of his thumb and stowage passage before being discovered.

Only several weeks after his unsuccessful air trip, Gary decided to try again. "I wanted to get to Europe before the weather got cold," he said.

His plans were to find a ship at Halifax, Nova Scotia. Learning there were no ships leaving for Europe, he went to New York City. Discouraged, Gary was ready to return home when he saw the luxury cruise ship "France" at dock.

"I really planned on returning home," Gary said. "But I wanted to see what the ship was like." By the time he found that out the "France" ship at Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Jury Alters Car Deaths Verdict

Beloit Man Found Half Negligent; Jail Sentence Suspended

A 28-year-old Beloit man, who was convicted of negligent homicide in connection with a fatal accident near Appleton three years ago, Monday night was ruled only 50 per cent negligent in causing the accident.

A 12-member Circuit Court jury, after an hour of deliberation, ruled that Thomas J. Lubeck and Mrs. Edna Hinz, 164 Rickers Bay Road, Neenah, were equally negligent in causing the accident Sept. 5, 1966. The jury had heard two days of testimony.

Lubeck's car, which was westbound on U. S. 10 two miles west of Appleton, sideswiped the Hinz auto, which was pulling out of the Outagamie County Hospital driveway, then slammed head-on into an eastbound car driven by Clarence Krebsbach of Manitowoc. Krebsbach and his wife were killed in the fiery crash.

Lubeck was seriously injured and spent two weeks in a hospital. Mrs. Hinz suffered lesser injuries.

A coroner's jury ruled in October, 1966, that Lubeck should be charged with negligent homicide in the deaths of the Krebsbachs. An Outagamie County Court jury on April 7, 1967, found Lubeck guilty of the homicide charge and he was sentenced to one year in jail.

However, Lubeck appealed the case to Circuit Court where Judge Andrew W. Parnell, while upholding the conviction, placed Lubeck on one year's probation to the State Department of Health and Social Services.

Mrs. Hinz sought $20,000 from Lubeck and his insurance carrier, alleging that he was negligent in the speed and operation of his car and that he attempted to pass her car in a no-passing zone.

Lubeck sought $40,000 from Mrs. Hinz and her insurance carrier, alleging she failed to stop at a stop sign and failed to yield the right-of-way to his car.

Norman Lunde, Elmhurst, Ill., owner of the car Lubeck was driving, sought $1,468 damages from Mrs. Hinz's insurance carrier.

Survivors of the Krebsbachs were not a party to the latest court action. There reportedly was an earlier settlement in that case.

Because both Mrs. Hinz and Lubeck were found equally negligent, no damages are awarded either party to the action.

Grave Markers of All Sizes and descriptions were tipped from their bases and broken at the Immanuel Lutheran Church cemetery at Zittau sometime during the past weekend.

Control Officer to Replace Police Dog Ordinance, City License Asked in Menasha

MENASHA — A dog control ordinance setting a $150 city dog license fee and creating the post of dog control officer to handle dog complaints in the city has been submitted to the health and welfare committee by Police Chief Lester Clark.

The committee discussed the ordinance Monday afternoon in light of a proposed $1,200 annual increase in fees requested by the Neenah-Menasha Animal Welfare Shelter for care of stray dogs in the city. The fee in 1969 was $1,800.

Welfare Shelter
Dave Ryan, vice president of the Animal Welfare Shelter, said the request was made to offset increased operating costs.

The committee will meet again with Ryan after he consults with the Shelter's board of directors to see if they would be willing to provide services of a dog control officer for an increased fee.

Clark favors the move because he says too much police department time is now taken up answering dog complaints at the expense of other, more important duties.

"If we had a full-time dog control officer, either in the city or through the shelter, he could take the time to take a dog census and collected the $150 license fees so I think that it would more than pay for itself," Clark said.

Waste Time
Clark said that under the present system, which requires police officers to answer all complaints, an officer "can spend two or three hours and not accomplish a darn thing."

Ryan suggested a fee in the neighborhood of $5,000 if the Animal Welfare Shelter were to furnish the service, and Clark said that "would be more feasible than what we have now."

Under Clark's proposed dog ordinance, the city dog control officer would devote 25 per cent of his time to dog control duty. Another 40 per cent of his time would be devoted to janitorial services for the department, while the other 35 per cent would include traffic control and related duties.

It also provides that rabies and tetanus shots be required before a dog can be licensed, and recommends acquisition of a used panel truck to serve as a dog pickup vehicle and traffic control van.

The fee should be strictly enforced under the ordinance, the chief said. Under the present state dog licensing statute, which provides for $1 and $2 fees on top of which the city fee would be collected, only about one-fifth of the city's dogs are licensed, the chief said.

At the end of August, 146 dogs were registered in Menasha under the state statute.

Dog Tags Required

Under the proposed ordinance, a dog tag would be required at all times, to help in dog identification and enforcement of the license fee. Committee Chairman Ronald Scheurle, Sixth Ward, said passage of such an ordinance would be "hard to swallow" at first for city residents, but that they would eventually get used to it.

"Some will probably complain about it, but most people will go along with it," he predicted.

Ryan's report to the committee said 1,107 animals were taken from all sources in 1968. In the city of Menasha, 189 dogs were delivered to the shelter by owners, while another 118 were picked up at the Menasha police station.

Richey Case Is Appealed

NEENAH — The police and fire commission, in a 3-2 vote Monday night decided to appeal a circuit court ruling which threw out its decision to discharge Sgt. William Richey.

Meeting behind closed doors for 1½ hours with City Atty. Duane Philis, the commission cast a secret ballot in favor of taking its case to the State Supreme Court.

In a press conference following the meeting, Philis said the appeal procedure would start as soon as possible. He would not comment on whether the commission would ask the city council for money to hire additional legal help for the appeal.

Richey and his attorney, Morris Warzink, appealed the commission's April decision to discharge the 22-year police department veteran after he had been charged with "conduct unbecoming a police officer."

Circuit Judge William E. Crane ruled Richey had not received a fair hearing before the commission.

Philis said the commission was basing its appeal on the contention that Judge Crane had ruled incorrectly.

Parker Asks User Charges For NM Treatment Plant

BY FRANK CHURCH

MENASHA — The chairman of the city's finance committee said Monday he would like to see the Neenah-Menasha Sewerage Commission begin levying charges against users as a means of encouraging major industrial users to "do what they can" to prevent sending massive quantities of waste to the Garfield Avenue plant.

Third Ward Ald. Sumner Parker said the present system, under which the plant operation is financed through equal contributions from both cities "doesn't encourage industry to do their part of the job."

Industry Encouragement

He said putting the operation on a user basis would encourage industry to find ways of in-plant treatment of waste water and other methods to prevent having to send large quantities of waste to the sewage treatment plant and be charged for it.

Right now, he says, industry isn't encouraged to make improvements because it would not benefit them. Unless they are located outside the corporate city limits of Neenah or Menasha, where they must pay a user charge, their part of the operation is funded through local taxes.

"If industry can take out a lot of the waste themselves that doesn't require secondary treatment at the sewerage treatment plant, we'll be money ahead," he said.

Parker said he hoped the Neenah and Menasha councils would encourage the commission to seek ways of encouraging users to correct part of the local sewerage treatment problem.

Stop Clear Water

The council's committee of the whole session Monday night also witnessed further pleas from some aldermen to begin moving on state orders to reduce infiltration of clear water into sanitary sewers by 1973.

Third Ward Ald. William Erickson echoed a plea made in the past that the city purchase sump pumps in large quantities so they can sell them to individual users at a reduced rate.

"If we give them (residents) something to bite at, they are going to come forward," Erickson said of city residents who are delaying action to separate their downspout and drain tile infiltration from the sanitary system.

Ald. Ronald Scheurle, Sixth Ward, said nothing will be done about residential infiltration of clear water until "someone makes a proposal."

$200 a Home

Scheurle noted a Sept. 17 request he made that the city move to encourage or require homeowners to eliminate foundation drain hookups and install sump pumps. The changeover is estimated to cost the average homeowner about $200.

"I've gotten complaints, and no one is beating down my door to say they want to put one in," he said.

He said everyone will "keep passing the buck" and putting off action on the 1973 deadline for separation until 1973, when "everyone will ask why nothing was done."

Ald. Donald Kuehl, Second

Ward, said a report on sanitary sewer and interceptor inspections made this year by American Pipe Service of Minneapolis will include startling results that may influence what the city does to correct the problem.

A report from American Pipe Service on city sewers inspected in 1968 said steps to correct the problems found could eliminate 200,000 gallons of infiltration per day.

Haas said he is now working on a priority list of improvements recommended on the basis of inspections made since 1962, and that these will be brought in for consideration in the 1970 budget.

The 1969 report by American Pipe applied to inspections along portions of Tayco, Third and Washington streets, Nicolet Blvd., and Appleton Road. It also included an inspection of the city's Fourth Street interceptor.

Need Improvements

Haas estimated that somewhere between 5 and 10 per cent of the sewers surveyed needed improvements. He also noted that the report said that during period of high water, the amount of infiltration would be greater than reported.

Kuehl said a report to be submitted to the Neenah-Menasha Sewerage Commission regarding inspections by American Pipe of major interceptors will be an "alarming report."

Keys in Ignition Police Car Theft To Circuit Court

OSHKOSH — The case against a Menasha man accused of taking an "unauthorized" ride in a City of Menasha squad car has been transferred to circuit court.

Clarence H. Heinz, 28, Hotel Menasha, appeared with his court-appointed attorney before Branch 3 Judge James V. Sitter on Monday.

Heinz, who is being held in the "county jail under $5,000 bond, has been charged with taking a vehicle without the owners consent.

The Menashan is accused of stealing the squad car on Oct. 6 while the vehicle was parked, with the keys in the ignition, in front of the Menasha police station.

State witnesses called by William Carver, assistant district attorney, included Menasha police officer Frank Haffner, sheriff's officer Leon Wohlt, and H. H. Nelson, City of Menasha clerk.

Haffner testified at the preliminary hearing that he parked the squad car in front of the station at about 11:45 p.m. and when he came out of the station at about 1 a.m., the car was gone. He also said he observed the defendant in the station prior to the alleged theft. "He came in to report a theft and appeared to be under the influence of alcohol," Haffner said.

The Menasha police officer told the court that the keys were in the ignition but "it was, at that time, a normal police to leave the keys in the ignition," he said.

Asked why it was a policy, Haffner explained, "we're a small department and at times some of the officers might need to grab a vehicle in a hurry for emergency use."

Wohlt testified he heard a radio report of the missing auto and observed the squad car traveling on U.S. 41 north of County Trunk O. He stopped the car and brought Heinz to the sheriff's department.

"He didn't display any abnormal behavior and I can't state to the degree of his intoxication," Wohlt said. When asked if he smelled alcohol on the defendant, Wohlt said, "moderately, yes."

Sales Up, Earnings Drop at Bergstrom's

NEENAH — Bergstrom Paper Company, in its report for the first nine months of 1969 today, announced an increase in sales but a drop in net earnings of $243,000, or about 39 cents per share of stock.

In 1968 the company reported sales of $18.8 million compared with $21 million for the first three quarters of 1969. Earnings dropped from $1.1 million a year ago to $887,000 this year.

Rising costs of materials and services plus inflation were cited as major factors in the earnings decline this year.

'Unacceptable Performance'
In a letter to stockholders, N. H. Bergstrom, board chairman, and H. R. Moore, company president, pointed to the drop in net earnings and said, "This is an unacceptable performance, and we are taking strong measures to offset this condition."

"It is our hope that inflation may be decelerated by the disciplines of the market place, but we see no near effect to be achieved," they said.

The two top company officials announced continuation of its research and development regarding stream pollution and waste disposal.

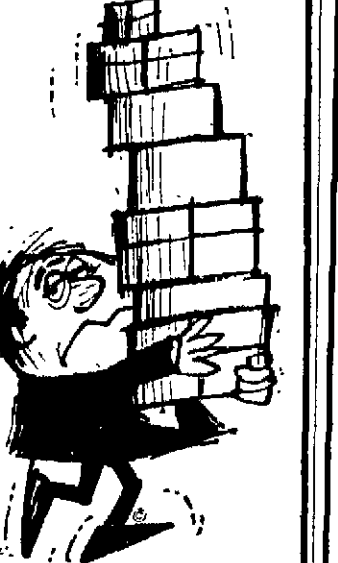

"It becomes increasingly evident that the complexity of handling waste products in a manner satisfactory for the public good will not only be a high capital cost, but also a high operating cost."

"Very little is said about it in the paper industry, but it is becoming rapidly apparent that it is going to be a major factor in the cost of the finished product," they said.

The company has declared a 90 cent per share dividend for the first three quarters of 1969 compared to 75 cents a year ago on the same period.

Clerk, Mayor Disagree Church Picnic Permit Causes Split Decision

There will be no keg for St. Bernard's this weekend, City Clerk Elden Broehm has decided, at the same time refusing to obey an executive order from the mayor.

St. Bernard Parish has asked for a picnic license so beer could be sold at a parish dance on Friday.

But, Broehm says state law requires him to disobey the order from Mayor George Buckley to issue the license.

signers are known to him to be "electors of the city of Appleton," but many list their addresses as other cities and towns.

A total of 120 petitions were sent out by Buckley to chief officials of all municipal governments a few weeks after an open hearing on the school, which received an enthusiastic approval from city and town officials, and a few days after Appleton's own council had voted to endorse the school.

Buckley had set his own deadline for returning the petitions as Oct. 8. About 650 signatures had been gathered by that time. Most of the others were gathered Oct. 15, final filing date.

The district encompasses a four-county area and includes more than 110 communities.

The proposed $6 million central facility will be built on the former Outagamie County farm, in the northwest corner of Appleton.

It is estimated by architect Laurent Schutte that specifications for the facility will be ready by Jan. 1 and that bidding could be completed in March.

The proposed school would have six buildings, in some cases connected by corridors. In the complex are a trades-industry, science, academic-health-administration, business and student services and central resource buildings.

The student capacity would be 2,500. Plans are to have the facility completed in time for the fall 1971 school term, although Schutte told the board that "usually a complex of this size needs two years."

Stowaway Says He's Finished With Travels was en route to Southampton, England.

The first night out he slept on the deck under a stack of deck chairs which were covered with a canvass. He said he awoke before dawn and heard voices nearby. The next instant he was doused with cold water from a fire hose—the crew was washing down the deck. He said he lay in the water for about 1½ hours before it was safe to crawl out.

Gary later made friends with some of the passengers who let him sleep on the floor in their cabins. He said about a dozen persons on board knew he was a stowaway but no one "tattled."

His meals were taken with the regular passengers in the dining room and each afternoon he faithfully went to tea. No questions were asked.

"By biggest problem," he said, "was getting off the ship at Southampton." When he attempted to go down the passenger gangway he was asked for his immigration slip. He said he had forgotten it in his cabin.

He went back on board and found the crew's gangway and sneaked down it.

His first crisis came the next day when he discovered that his passport was missing. Several days later while passing through Winchester he learned it had been found and turned in at the Winchester police station. It was returned to him without any questions asked.

Hitchhiking took him across England, Scotland and Wales, to Liverpool to see friends he had made last spring on a stowage trip to the West Indies, and to Dundee, Scotland, where he boarded a Soviet freighter.

The Soviet seamen were very friendly, Gary said, and

He received the mayor's order Monday. Today, Broehm received a letter from the State Department of Justice confirming his belief that the license can only be approved by the common council.

The council doesn't meet until Nov. 5, to late for Friday's dance.

Broehm said that beside the letter from the justice department, he justifies his position on grounds that he lacks a written application for the license, and Buckley's orders were issued without the parish hall first being inspected by the police and fire chiefs as required for a picnic license.

"I'm sticking to the opinion of the state," Broehm declared this morning. Buckley said he, in turn, is acting on the advice of City Atty. David Geenen, who ruled a city ordinance gives the mayor executive power to order the license issued.

The council approves it after the fact, Geenen said, adding picnic licenses have been issued under similar circumstances by order of the mayor "as long as I've been here, and long before then."

He asked where Broehm received authority to question the legality of the order. "He's a clerk, not an attorney," said Geenen.

"We have done our duty so far as we can," added Buckley, "and the matter now rests in City Clerk Elden Broehm's hands."

County Committees Cancel Joint Meeting

A special joint meeting of the Outagamie County Board's executive and public properties committees, proposed for 6 p.m. today, will not be held.

The public properties committee had requested the meeting to seek authority to get formal appraisals on property in the block north of the courthouse and to attend an auction sale of one of the properties.

It was learned the auction would not be held until late November.

Both requests of the committee will be taken up at the regular executive committee meeting Nov. 4.

seemed well educated. They fed him and showed him the ship. A number of them could speak English, he reported.

With little difficulty, Gary landed in Northern Ireland and went to Belfast to see another friend he had made on one of his trips. After hitchhiking around Northern Ireland, he went south to the Republic of Ireland, staying at youth hotels and working for his lodging and meals.

Gary then returned to Scotland and hitchhiked down to Wales before deciding to try for the mainland of Europe. "I felt I was making a mistake going to Dover," Gary recounted. He was. He got caught. Immigration officials stopped him while he was taking pictures of the ship he was planning to stow away on.

It wasn't until he was back in Southampton that he learned how he would be returned to the United States. "When I got down to the docks I saw some familiar looking smoke stacks," he said. It was the "France."

While he has decided to retire from traveling, U.S. immigration officials are temporarily assisting in his decision. They are holding his passport.

His assessment of the trip? "I liked Scotland the best," he said. But he termed the people of Ireland "extra nice." England was at the bottom of the list. "The traffic jams are as bad as they are here."

The experience of this trip, plus the previous trips to the West Indies and Europe, will form the setting for a book he intends to write, called "From Asphalt Exits to Cobblestone Streets."

The asphalt exits are the docks and airports from which he has started his journeys.

expose sophomores to the education before they come in contact with drug pushers and users in the high schools.

Ediger says the students are receptive to learning about drugs.

The drug unit also will include information on the effects of alcohol and nicotine, he says.

Junior High Contact

Students are coming in contact with drugs in the junior high and undoubtedly in some cases using drugs. West, however, feels that the extensive use is in the high school, not the junior highs.

A survey of his ninth grade government class and seventh and eighth grade science classes indicates more students come in contact with drugs as they get older.

However, West notes this can change from class to class, depending on how active a group may be. With a class heavily active in school and extracurricular activities, there is less chance of influence toward drug use, West believes.

One of six seventh graders said he knows someone who uses drugs; one of three eighth graders, and one of two ninth graders did the same. Similarly, asked if they knew of anyone who had taken drugs at some time. It was one of three in seventh, one of two in eighth and two of three in ninth.

West and his informal student group have gathered much information on drugs, and although most graduated to senior high, the information is there to help him build another discussion group.

He feels this can be the groundwork to a detailed drug information program.

Knowles Still Calls for Tarr Tax Reforms

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles renewed his appeals for adoption of the Tarr task force's shared-tax program as legislators returned to the Capitol today to review their objections to the bill.

"It would be a tragedy if we were to pass up this opportunity to eliminate the existing inequities in the state tax distribution system, and fail to improve the administrative nightmare which now exists," Knowles said Monday.

The bill, the Republican governor added, "provides a clear opportunity" for the Republican-controlled legislature "to demonstrate its desire for tax reform."

The Tarr bill calls for elimination of many of the discrepancies between community property tax rates, a new formula of sharing state tax revenues with cities, and methods of easing local tax burdens.

The state secretary of revenue, James R. Morgan, issued a new round of statistics in support of the bill.

His latest report indicates 64 per cent of the state's taxpayers would benefit. Earlier figures had indicated 57 per cent.

The Tarr formula, coupled with the latest increases in school aid, could mean lower tax rates for 76 per cent of the population compared with an earlier estimate of 72 per cent, the report said.

Estimates made last year indicated 69 per cent of taxing districts would benefit. The latest report indicates 63 per cent. Coupled with recently raised school tax aids, 77 per cent of communities should benefit, it said.

Spokesmen for the Wisconsin Alliance of Cities, which had asked Knowles to address legislators today, have said 70 per cent or even 75 per cent of the state's citizens would benefit from the Tarr plan.

Mayor Henry Maier of Milwaukee said last week that Wau-sau and Green Bay would gain more from the bill than had been forecast in 1968.

Jury Finds Ex-Appleton Man Innocent of Luring 16-Year-Old Into Car

An Outagamie County Court jury deliberated nearly 5½ hours Monday before returning an innocent verdict in the case of a former Appleton man charged with enticing a minor into his car for immoral purposes.

Byron Schiller, 31, Janesville, was charged after investigation by Appleton police who said the alleged offense, involving a 16-year-old Appleton boy, occurred early April 21, 1968.

Schiller, who had a court-appointed attorney, had been free on bond pending the trial, which was delayed several times.

The 12-member jury heard a day of testimony and reached a verdict about 10:30 p.m. Monday.

game that can be rigged up on the spur of the moment with things easy to find around the house is today's fun-project. It's played with a couple of paper cups and 30 dry beans. The object is to use both the right and left hands to drop 15 beans, one at a time, into each cup and see how rapidly it can be done. The winner will be the player who can dispose of all the beans in the least time. Figure 1 shows how to set up the equipment. Place the beans in a pile between the two cups. The beans may be handled in either of two ways, depending upon agreement between the players. One way calls for the right-hand to pick up a bean and deposit it in the right-hand cup, followed by the left-hand picking up a bean and depositing it in the left-hand cup. The other way is for the

Take Division Lead Jets Down Oilers

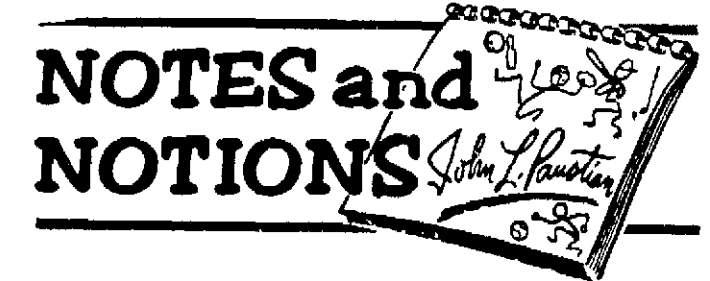

By DICK COUCH
NEW YORK (AP) — When Don Maynard shows American Football League pass defenders the No. 13 on the back of his New York Jets jersey, they're usually out of luck.

Maynard, a slick speedster in his 12th pro season, gave Houston's Miller Farr and Ken Houston the back of his shirt Monday night as the Jets downed the Oilers 26-17 to grab first place in the AFL East.

Joe Namath fired touchdown strikes of 57 and 54 yards to Maynard and Jim Turner kicked four field goals as the Jets won their home opener before a roaring Shea Stadium crowd of 63,841—largest in AFL history.

Maynard streaked past Farr with 6½ minutes remaining in the second quarter and took Namath's float in for a 10-7 New York lead.

Then, 18 seconds before the Sunday's 34-21 misadventure in Los Angeles undoubtedly had these two effects, among others: (1) It delayed Green Bay Packer "planning" for the Super Bowl and (2) it hastened the advent of the Don Horn quarterbacking era.

The Rams game, like the Minnesota contest two weeks earlier, accentuated the fact that the "Pack is back — partially." The Bays can handle the middle- and lower-echelon teams but continue to stumble against the power clubs. They've now lost to every member of the "big 3" — to Dallas, in an exhibition, and to Minnesota and LA in league play. There is no short cut to the Super Bowl... You can't get there without winning the "big ones" — as Bays did in the Vince Lombardi era. After the 12-point loss to the Vikings and the 13-0 setback to the Rams, the odds against Green Bay's regaining a Super Bowl berth have lengthened. To win the NFL title, the Packers would have to handle the Vikings, the Rams and the Cowboys — probably in that order... and, thus far, Green Bay has not produced that high caliber of play. In fact, the Packers are going to have to prove they can take the measure of Baltimore — which is only a shade below the "big 3" — a few weeks hence. Needless to say, Green Bay can't afford any slips against the two foes — Atlanta and Pittsburgh — that separate it from the Baltimore assignment. Though it's not yet panic time for the Packers or their faithful, it's pretty clear that the Bays cannot afford to lose before their return match against the Vikings — unless someone surprises the powerful Minnesotans in the meantime.

Horn's performance, of course, was the bright spot of Gloomy Sunday for the Packers. One hopes that this won't turn out to be Horn's "annual" 1-game starring role. (Two years ago, he punctured Chicago Bear title hopes in the finale. This was his first opportunity of any extent in the '69 season). Don again showed that he's already to good a QB to spend 95 per cent of his time (19 of 20 quarters this season) on the bench. I'm not anti-Burt Starr, and I don't believe Horn will become No. 1 QB next week, but his miffy performance should speed his

Maynard streaked past Farr with 6½ minutes remaining in the second quarter and took Namath's float in for a 10-7 New York lead.

Then, 18 seconds before the half-time gun, he snared another — as Houston slipped and fell on the chewed-up Shea turf — and loped into the end zone, tying Art Powell's AFL career record of 81 touchdowns.

Few More Moves

"You've got to use a few more moves on these guys after 11 years," said the slender Texan, who caught seven passes in all for a total of 212 yards.

"They're awful quick and they don't wear as much padding as I do."

"I don't think I'm slowing up, but they seem faster."

Maynard, who breaks his own all-pro record for receiving yardage every time he makes a catch, isn't planning on letting the defensive backs off the hook.

"I train better than anyone around," he said. "I like playing football. The game has been great to me and I owe it to myself to keep playing as long as I can."

"He's one of the best," said Houston, who spent a trying night shadowing the elusive Jet veteran. "He's got the speed and he can catch the ball. And he has the experience, too."

Farr and Houston refused to use the poor field condition as an alibi and Jets placekicker Turner, who has booted 15 field goals in 21 attempts this season, said it didn't affect his kicking.

"I didn't have to kick from the sod," said the AFL point leader, who connected from 17, 48, 45 and 21 yards. "I had to dig in on the long one because I was kicking off the dirt and against the wind."

eventual promotion. In the interim, it would seem judicious that the Packers make greater use of his services against particular teams or in special situations. Starr is the greatest QB in Packer history, and it's impossible to over-emphasize his contributions to the Bays' glory of the last decade. When given ample protection, he can still hit the bulletpoints with any passer anywhere. But times change — he's not getting the protection he got in the title days — and at least some of the opposing defenses are getting stronger and more reckless. Such overpowering teams as Minnesota and Los Angeles have had Starr at their mercy.

Horn, in his 1-quarter appearance, showed he could more than hold his own against the same type of rush. Despite coming in "cold," and despite the Ram defensive unit's knowledge that Don had to pass (with the Bays 20 points behind) the quick-releasing Horn put the ball on target on almost every one of his 13 passes. He had five completions, and three or four others should have been caught. Younger and faster than Starr, Horn got the ball away quicker from the pocket and also danced to his right once in a semi-rollout. Conservative football will never beat a team like the Rams, and the Packers used too much of it for three periods.

If you want to attribute defeat to something other than the Rams' strength, the Packer offense and defense would have to accept almost equal "blame." The Bay offensive units staged an early Christmas for the Rams, as they gave away 13 quick points (with three fumbles). When the Green Bay offense finally got untracked, the defense crumbled. The Bays' inability to prevent either the Rams' TD just before the first half ended or the one they got as the second half started just about sealed the Green Bay's doom. The Pack defense was unable to come in with a single big play—in the form of an interception, fumble recovery or blocked kick — and that fogged out a Packer trademark of series years and earlier games of this year (against the Bears and the 49ers). Green Bay's

AL's Cronin Denies Rumors That Seattle Pilots Will be Moved

Says Things Can be Worked Out

By JOE MOOSHL
CHICAGO (AP) — President Joe Cronin and a group of American League owners met with representatives of the Seattle Pilots Monday and put down any possibility of a franchise move.

Rumors that the Seattle franchise would be moved to Milwaukee or Dallas - Fort Worth were cut down by Cronin and attending league owners.

The session was informal and requested by Seattle interests who apparently feared reprisal over the fact the Pilots drew only 680,000 in their initial year.

Although a scheduled joint meeting of the American and National league is on tap to day, Cronin said the American League had no plans for a separate meeting which would involve any shift of the Seattle franchise.

'We are Concerned'

"Why they asked for this meeting, I don't know," said Cronin in reference to the Seattle delegation request for a meeting with the league. "We are concerned about some things in Seattle but nothing that can't be worked out."

No less than a half dozen representatives from Seattle were on hand including King County executive John Spellman; Perry Johnson, who heads a group designing a $40 - million domed stadium; and Jerry Grinstead and Brian Corcoran, a pair of representatives of Sens. Warren Magnuson and Henry M. Jackson of Washington.

Everything seemed cordial following the meeting and John Fetzer, owner of the Detroit Tigers, expressed the general view that "It would be morally wrong to shift a new franchise out of Seattle."

There were no representatives at the meeting from Milwaukee, but Joe Macko was on hand to represent Dallas interests in the name of Texas millionaire Lamar Hunt who is seeking a major league team for the Dallas - Fort Worth area.

Macko was not convinced by Cronin's statements following the meeting and said he would ask Hunt and Hunt's partner, Tommy Mercer, to be in Chicago for the joint American and National league meetings today.

Dodges Questions

Numerous questions were put to Cronin as to a possible move of the Seattle franchise, but the league president kept dodging them by stating "nobody has asked for any franchise shift."

Attending the meeting were Jerry Hoffberger of Baltimore, Gabe Paul of Cleveland, Bob Short of Washington, Bob Reynolds of California, Cal Griffith of Minnesota and Fetzer.

Absent were owner representatives of Chicago, Oakland, Boston, New York, Kansas City and Seattle. All figure to be on hand for the joint meetings Tuesday.

The league set an Oct. 30 deadline for Seattle on three items, Lenny Anderson, Seattle Post-Intelligencer baseball writer, said.

Pack May Have Been 'Too Tight'

Lack of Poise Big Factor In Defeat, Bengtson Says

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Football, necessarily, is a game of emotion.

Physical ability alone thus is not a guarantee of success. It must be accompanied by the desire to excel.

Unfortunately, that emotion also can betray if excessive in intensity. And this, GM-Coach Phil Bengtson conceded Monday is what might well have befallen the Packers in the Los Angeles Coliseum Sunday afternoon.

"There is a very reasonable possibility that we were too tight," said Bengtson, who saw his team rebound from a 20-0 deficit with two second quarter touchdowns, only to ultimately submit, 34-21.

"It was a big game for both of us," he pointed out. "Their poise and our lack of it was the difference, I guess."

That, obviously, had been a disappointment. And so, Bengtson admitted, was the Packers' inability to keep the Rams out of their end zone as the first half ended, when the Angelenos mounted a 27-14 lead.

"Even if we had held them to a field goal," he said, "it would have been all right. If we go into the dressing room at half-time behind 20-14, we're in pretty good shape."

The Rams' Roman Gabriel, he noted, "did a good job on that drive. It was typical of the game. Their offensive line held our defensive line out of there and our offensive line couldn't hold out their defensive line."

Mack Had Good Day

"Bob Brown has helped their offensive line, of course. And Charlie Cowan is another good one in there. Tom Mack also had the best day for them that we've seen him have."

On a more pleasant subject, Bengtson said he had "liked" Don Horn's fourth quarter performance at quarterback.

"He was very good," he noted. "It was a good, gutsy performance... we've always known that when called on he can do the job."

"Bart Starr was pretty well banged around just prior to that," Bengtson said in explaining the move. "And we wanted to give us just a little different look for the Ram defense."

Discussing possible future use of Horn, he added, "it depends on what each game dictates... a lot of things can happen."

Kimberly Becomes First Fox Cities '11' To Gain Championship

BY RON WITT

Kimberly salted away at least a share of its first Mid-Eastern Conference championship in 14 years and closed in on an unbeaten season at the same time to highlight prep football action in the Fox Cities over the weekend.

By dumping a stubborn New London outfit, 22-6, the Papermakers ran their league record to 5-0 and overall log to 7-0 for the year. Coach Jack Wippich's hard-nosed gang now has only Menasha (1-5-0) blocking its path to an outright M-E crown and a perfect grid campaign for 1969.

While the Papermakers were continuing their winning ways, the three area schools with the next-best records were also posting victories. Xavier (6-0-1) ran roughshod over Delafield St. John, 62-8, for the biggest point explosion by a Fox Cities team this year; Kaukauna (6-1-0) rumbled past Shawano, 27-12; and Little Chute (4-1-2) nipped Lomira, 17-16, behind a 40-yard field goal by Mike Fitzpatrick.

East West Tie

Appleton East and Appleton West looked like even ball clubs entering their annual intra-city clash at East's homecoming Saturday, and the result backed up that pre-game outlook as the Pats and Terrors struggled to an 8-8 standoff.

Daley Has Contacted The Brewers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Seattle Pilots' board chairman confirmed Monday he has been talking with Milwaukee baseball promoters about relocating the club's American League franchise.

But Dallas - Fort Worth interests are also "very much in the picture," William R. Daley said in a telephone interview with the Milwaukee Sentinel.

"I would be happy to come to Milwaukee, if we could get permission from the American League," he said.

Daley said he has had "one or two talks with Milwaukee Brewers Baseball Club Inc., which has been seeking a franchise since shortly after the Braves moved to Atlanta in 1966. The Dallas-Fort Worth element, Daley said, has made "a concrete offer" for the Pilots.

The Pilots, Daley said, are "not satisfied—not a bit—with the conditions as they are" in Seattle.

"Unless the city gets something done about them," he continued, "I'm certainly not adverse to making the move."

Ohio State, 34-7 winner over Minnesota, remained in first place with 27 first-place votes and 666 points. Texas, idle last Saturday, was second with five first-place ballots and 612 points, while Arkansas, also idle, remained fourth with 417 points, 18 points less than Tennessee.

Brodie Has 'Dead' Elbow

49ers Shopping for Another Quarterback

By JIM CHURCH
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"How come," San Francisco 49er quarterback John Brodie once asked, "they say Joe Namath has a 'quick release,' but they say I 'unload'?"

Brodie can't unload anymore and today the winless 49ers went shopping for another quarterback.

The 34-year-old passer, awaiting results of X-rays on his "dead right elbow," isn't "definitely counted out," 49er Coach Dick Nolan said Monday night.

"We have to get another quarterback somewhere along the line," Nolan said.

Asked if he knew of any that were available, Nolan replied, "Yes, for a big price."

Use Spurrier

The coach said third-year quarterback Steve Spurrier from Florida will be depended upon Sunday against Baltimore and that the 49ers would begin work today "to fit the offense around him."

Brodie, a 13-year veteran from Stanford, was soundly booed Sunday by a small home crowd of 26,684 as the 49ers fell to Atlanta, 21-7. The 49ers are now 0-4-1 in National Football League play after an 0-6 exhibition season.

Brodie completed 19 of 31 passes for 159 yards, but said "most of the completions were on dinky passes."

"There's no strength in my arm, my elbow is dead," Brodie added. "I guess I've just thrown too many passes."

"I was throwing 'waffle' balls. Throwing a football is all touch. I had no feel, I had nothing, absolutely nothing on the ball. The team can't win with me throwing like that," said Brodie.

"It's not a steady pain, but comes and goes. We thought he'd shake it off," said team physician Dr. Lloyd Milburn, who explained the trouble was in the muscle on the inside of his right elbow.

"It's a chronic case of pitcher's elbow," the doctor said. Brodie has been bothered in the past with his right shoulder and apparently the elbow problem developed from that, said Milburn.

Report Hull Will Retire From Hockey

Contract Dispute Still Not Settled, Says Toronto Paper

TORONTO (AP)—The Globe and Mail says in its Tuesday edition that Bobby Hull, high-scoring left winger with the Chicago Black Hawks, has announced his retirement from the National Hockey League.

The paper says in a copyright story that Hull announced his retirement last week in a telegram to Tommy Ivan, manager of the Hawks, who have lost their first five games in the current NHL season.

The paper says Hull conferred with Ivan in Chicago last week over the dispute of Hull's four-year contract signed last year. Hull still has three years to play on the contract.

No Concessions
"Tommy and I had a fine meeting," The Globe quotes Hull as saying. "We both had counsellors listening to the discussion. I thought the air was cleared for me to return. But when Ivan went to get clearance from (Bill) Wirtz, he was told there'd be no concessions."

Hull was not available for comment at his Picton, Ont., home, about his reported retirement, but the Globe says he will be in Western Canada this week to attend cattle sales in Duchess, Alta., Lloydminster, Sask., and Whitewood, Sask.

All Injured Bays Expected To be Ready

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — X-rays Monday revealed that Packer offensive tackle Francis Peay suffered a broken finger on his right hand in Sunday's 34-21 loss to the Rams at Los Angeles.

It will not, however, keep him out of next Sunday's game with the Atlanta Falcons in Lambeau Field, Coach Phil Bengtson announced.

He said that Peay's replacement, sophomore Dick Himes, "probably will be available" for duty against the Falcons. Himes sprained an ankle on the play on which Bart Starr fumbled at the 3-yard-line, forcing Peay's return to action. The latter had been injured in the first quarter.

Linebackers LeeRoy Caffey and Ray Nitschke also suffered bruised knees, Bengtson said, but indicated they will be ready for the Falcons, along with fellow casualty Travis Williams. Williams' left eye was closed by a chance blow in the third quarter and he sat out the rest of the game.

"The sun was bothering him after the eye closed," Bengtson explained. "That's why we had to take him out."

Tom Mack Cited Allen Calls Offensive Line Best in League

By JAC KSTEVENSON
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Heralding the unheralded, Coach George Allen of the undefeated Los Angeles Rams declares: "We feel we have the best offensive line in the National Football League."

Allen, known as a defensive genius, said he didn't want to take anything away from the great play of quarterback Roman Gabriel, yet pointed out the line has given him time to throw.

Guard Tom Mack, a four-year veteran from Michigan, was named pro player-of-the-week by the Southern California Football Writers on Monday, following Sunday's 34-21 victory over the Green Bay Packers.

Mack, a 250-pounder, checked the defensive guard of the renowned Henry Jordan. The veteran Joe Seibelli, from Notre Dame, holds down the other guard position, with Ken Iman from Southeast Missouri State at center.

Ninth Pro Year
Seibelli and Iman are playing their ninth pro year with the former scaling 255 and the latter 240.

At the tackle are Bob Brown, the former Philadelphia All-Pro who joined the Rams this season, and the veteran Charlie Cowan. Brown, 290, is a collegiate product of Nebraska, and Cowan, 265, came from New Mexico Highlands.

Those unsung five, plus tight end Billy Truax, provide a big reason Gabriel completed 17 passes against Green Bay to bring his career total to 1,019. That beats the Ram record of 1,011 set by Norm Van Brock-

Thurston, Krampien Selected As Valpo's Top Left Guards

The Fox Cities area has placed two men on the all-time Valparaiso (Ind.) University football squads. Both of them were left guards.

Fred (Fuzzy) Thurston, Neenah, former Packer great and now operator of two "Left Guard" eating spots in the Fox Cities, and George V. Krampien, Appleton, senior vice president and director of agencies for Aid Association for Lutherans, were named to the post-World War II and pre-World War II all-time Valpo teams, respectively.

Winning Record
Two teams were selected as part of Valparaiso's observance of 50 years of football, which coincides with college football's centennial year. The selection committee, members of which were not announced, used World War II as the dividing line in picking 11 pre-war Valpo stars for the Crusaders all-time teams.

Thurston attended Valparaiso from 1951 to 1955. The team had a winning record during that span and won the league championship in 1953. Krampien played on an undefeated team and was captain of the squad in his senior year.

Thurston went on to play professional football for more than a decade, most of the time with the Packers. Krampien played semi-pro ball in the Chicago area for a season. Players were reimbursed for travel expenses and meals.

Krampien, as a Valpo left guard, weighed 172 pounds. He still does. Thurston weighed 238 in his college days. "I wish I weighed that again," he says. Which caused one way to comment that "one of these guys is spending too much time at the Left Guard."

Shiner Will Start If He Gets His Voice Back
PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League said Monday injured quarterback Dick Shiner will start against the Washington Redskins Sunday if he gets his voice back.

Shiner suffered a badly bruised larynx in Saturday night's game at Cleveland and a club spokesman said when the quarterback was released from a Pittsburgh hospital Monday, he couldn't talk above a whisper.

Coach Chuck Noll said Shiner will start against the Redskins if he is able to call signals. Noll said he has not decided whether to use Terry Hanratty or Kent Nix in the event Shiner can't play.

Day-Long Celebration

New York Again Goes Wild Over Mets

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City went wild for its Mets again Monday for the last time in this improbable year.

It was Mets Day in the city, and festivities continued until fireworks studded the clear dark skies over Shea Stadium, where the Mets were guests of the city's other world champions, the football Jets.

The Mets' evening began with a reception at Gracie Mansion, home of Mayor John V. Lindsay. Then they drove to Flushing Meadows Park, next to the stadium, for a rally with searchlights and fireworks. Next they went to the ballpark for a roaring ovation from 63,841 fans at the American Football League game between the Jets and the Houston Oilers.

Mets Day began with a ticker-tape parade through Lower Manhattan that drew thousands of spectators, including many schoolchildren playing hooky, books under their arms.

The Sanitation Department said 578 tons of litter had been cleared from the parade route by 6 p.m., at a cost of $28,000. It was far more than the 300 tons of paper dropped on the Apollo 11 astronauts in August, but less than half the amount thrown about in the spontaneous celebration last Thursday when the Mets won the fifth and final game of the World Series against the Baltimore Orioles.

At City Hall ceremonies, Lindsay displayed a street sign marked Gil Hodges Place and said it would hang for the day on the Brooklyn street where the Mets' manager lives.

The Mets presented the city with a pitchers' rubber from Shea Stadium, autographed by the team.

Thurston attended Valparaiso from 1951 to 1955. The team had a winning record during that span and won the league championship in 1953. Krampien played on an undefeated team and was captain of the squad in his senior year.

Bears Have Tied Worst Start in History With Five Straight Losses

By JOE MOOSHIL
CHICAGO (AP) — Coach Jim Dooley's dilemma is twofold these days—whom to start at quarterback and how to win a football game for the Chicago Bears.

Sporting an 0-5 record, the Bears have tied their worst start in history when they lost their first five games of the 1969 season and finished with a 4-9 record.

Prospects are not bright that the Bears will not break that record since they face the undefeated Los Angeles Rams this week and then follow it up with an appearance at Minnesota against the same Viking team which shut out the Bears 31-0 a week ago Sunday.

In addition to all of this, Dooley again is undecided on the quarterback position. Jack Concannon won the job from Virgil Carter in training camp but after four losses including two shutouts, Dooley went to rookie Bob Douglass, a southpaw from Kansas.

Douglass threw one touchdown pass in a 13-7 loss to Detroit Sunday but Concannon played the part of reliever by going in on tough third down situations.

"Douglass did a good job on the touchdown pass," said Dooley. "He stayed in the pocket under a pressure blitz. Another time he hit a secondary receiver. But there were several times he rolled out when he shouldn't have. I'm not sure who will start against Los Angeles."

Apparently Dooley either was not satisfied with Douglass' performance or he is reluctant to put the youngster on the spot against the front four of the Rams.

Quarterbacking, however, is not all that's troubling the Bears. The great Gale Sayers, claiming to have fully recovered from knee surgery, has yet to score a touchdown. In fact, against the Vikings he gained 15 yards in 13 carries and against the Lions he gained 12 yards in eight attempts.

Dooley refuses to comment on Sayers' situation and when it was suggested that there's a bright spot at least in the Bear defense, the handsome coach disagreed.

"When you have five losses, you don't hand out bouquets to anyone," said Dooley. "The defense has played well at times but not as well as it should be playing. Some guys are playing great and others should be playing great."

"There could be no more adversity than there was last year when we suffered all those injuries but we won games because we had togetherness which is currently lacking on the club."

"We're 0-5 and I know it's killing the Halases, myself, the writers and the fans. But I don't know if it is hurting the team."

"Boos? The fans should boo us," said Dooley. "Nothing they could do would be unloyal on their part. It is us who have been unloyal to them the way we have been playing."

Knowles Urged to Act as Vote Nears on Tarr's Bill

KENOSHA (AP) — The president of the Wisconsin Alliance of Cities broadcast an appeal Sunday to Gov. Warren P. Knowles to lead an eleventh-hour campaign against Republican plans to sink the Tarr task force's shared-tax program.

"It appears the bill will be killed unless strong leadership is exerted to save it," Mayor Wallace E. Burke said in his statement to Knowles. "I call upon you to personally take command of the fight to pass this desperately needed tax-reform measure."

Legislators returned today to the Capitol, where the Republican-controlled Senate has already voted once against the Tarr program, and where the Assembly's Republican majority similarly has rejected a measure that had been drawn up to test legislative sympathy for the bill.

The Tarr program, a result of 18 months of study, is designed to ease local property tax burdens, give most of Wisconsin's municipalities a better share of state tax revenue and reduce discrepancies between municipal tax levels.

Proponents of the bill say most legislative opposition comes from rural lawmakers whom a Milwaukee alderman accused of being ignorant of the measure's benefits.

Burke, broadcasting his weekly "Mayor's Report," asked Knowles' administration to inform legislators how the bill would affect each lawmaker's district.

"The Alliance of Cities," Burke said, "is doing everything possible to save the bill."

Burke and the mayors of Milwaukee, Madison, Green Bay and Wausau led a two-week, statewide series of speaking appearances last month in support of the bill.

Knowles, Burke said, should make an effort to address the legislature Tuesday "to urge passage of the bill."

Burke said he also is sending a similar plea to Lt. Gov. Jack B. Olson.

Meanwhile, William Beyer, executive secretary of the alliance, said in Milwaukee that mayors and city managers of Wisconsin's 16 largest communities, urging them to pressure legislators in favor of the Tarr formula.

Beyer said several hundred letters were being mailed to other municipal officials—including town chairmen and village presidents—to show them how the bill would benefit their communities.

The campaign, he said, is geared to demonstrating that the Tarr plan would provide more benefit for rural areas than critics have admitted.

The State Department of Revenue expected to begin circulation Tuesday of a new breakdown on the bill's potential benefits.

Burke and Beyer said 1968 estimates had indicated 70 per cent of the state's municipalities would benefit. New studies show the percentage should be even higher; they said.

Mayor Henry Maier of Milwaukee has said the new report will show at least 75 per cent of the state's taxpayers would benefit.

Pastor Installed At Embarrass, Pella Opening

Rev. E. F. Schlade Will Serve Two Lutheran Churches

EMBARRASS — The Rev. Edwin F. Schlade was installed as pastor of the Zion Lutheran Church, Embarrass, and St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran

Rev. Schlade

Church, Pella Opening, in special services Sunday.

The Rev. G. M. Krueger, Clintonville, has served as interim pastor of the two churches since the Rev. Edgar E. Barg accepted a call to Ladysmith 14 months ago.

Pastor Schlade will have as his sermon theme for Sunday's services, "Why Maintain A Church?" Services will be at 7:30 and 10:30 a.m. at Zion and at 9 a.m. at St. Peter.

Pastor and Mrs. Schlade have moved into the parsonage at Embarrass, coming here from Rock Falls, Ill. They have four children, David, who is a foreman at General Motors in Defiance, Ohio; Mrs. Charles Virginia, Minneapolis; Dr. Roger E. Schlade, Stryker, Ohio; and Edwin II, who is serving with the Coast Guard in Charleston, S. C.

Pastor at Clintonville Turns Down New Post

CLINTONVILLE — The Rev. Ralph Hanusa, pastor of Christus Lutheran Church, announced Sunday that the call he recently received to become senior pastor at First Lutheran Church, Manitowoc, was returned and he had decided to remain in Clintonville.

The Rev. Mr. Hanusa has been pastor of Christus church for the past 10 years.

Three-Year Expansion

Phones Pace Valley Growth

Much of the $19 million Wisconsin Telephone Company's Northern Division will spend each of the next three years will be funneled into expansion in the Fox Valley area.

L. T. Jackson, division managing engineer, Appleton, said Monday that $3.5 million to $4 million in expansion's expected annually for the Kaukauna to Fond du Lac area.

"In the Fox Valley we've got a tremendous growth, and that's what we're trying to respond to," Jackson said.

He said that only in metropolitan Milwaukee is Wisconsin Telephone funneling more expansion money.

Jackson, who is responsible for evaluating the division growth program, said the $19 million figure undoubtedly will be revised upward in the future because of the accelerated needs for telephone service. The division includes most of Wisconsin from north of Madison to Superior to Green Bay and to the fringes of Milwaukee.

Rural Conversion

The division is spending about $2 million a year to convert rural areas from eight-party to one-two-, and four-party lines. This includes more than $300,000 for the Wrightstown area, which is the final Appleton rural area to be converted.

The Wrightstown project is to be completed in April of 1970.

Other conversions are the Oshkosh rural area by March, 1971, for about $300,000; Fond du Lac by December, 1969, for $1 million, and Winneconne, April, 1972, for $200,000.

Jackson said the conversion is in line with an agreement with the Wisconsin Public Service Commission of Wisconsin, and all cables are buried. The division conversion program must be completed by 1973.

With conversion and expansion of service to new areas, switching equipment and outside plant equipment, mainly cables, also must be increased.

For switching equipment to connect new parties with a city network, the division expects annual expenditures of about $450,000 for Appleton, $300,000 N

For switching equipment to connect new parties with a city network, the division expects annual expenditures of about $450,000 for Appleton, $300,000

Neenah-Menasha, $150,000 Waupaca and $50,000 to $100,000 each for Kaukauna and Little Chute.

For the interconnecting cables to tie new parties with other cities, Jackson said, the company will spend about $50,000 next year for switching equipment in Appleton.

Jackson recently unveiled the program to engineers from several of the 61 company exchanges and toll facilities in the division.

He noted that the growth must be geared to the growth of an area and must be determined economically feasible before the company acts.

"We try to match the growth of an area," he said.

Brillion Says It's Complying With Anti-Pollution Request

BRILLION — The city is complying with all phases of a pollution abatement order issued last week by the State Department of Natural Resources, (DNR) Glen Campbell, city director of public works, said Monday.

Bids will be opened Monday for the chlorinating apparatus to be used for continuous disinfection of sewage plant effluent, which is part of the order.

The city's sanitary sewage collection system is being inspected frequently, and repairs are being made to exclude surface waters, which is another DNR stipulation, Campbell said. This work involves comparing sewage flow during normal times with rainy periods to locate possible surface water infiltration, he added. Breaks are being constantly repaired, and crews have rebuilt some manholes and raised others as a waterproofing measure against flood waters.

A compliance schedule was submitted to the DNR over a year ago by Campbell after he attended an enforcement conference at Sturgeon Bay. Three stipulations to protect and improve the quality of waters within the Lake Michigan drainage basin were outlined at that conference. The city has since worked toward compliance, Campbell said.

A thorough investigation of alleged pollution of the surface waters in the Manitowoc River basin in Manitowoc, Calumet, Fond du Lac and Brown counties by the DNR disclosed that improperly treated effluents were being discharged, creating conditions hazardous to public health and adversely affecting aquatic life. Brillion officials attended a June 9, 1968, public hearing on the matter at Manitowoc.

As a result of the DNR findings and the public hearing, Brillion and 10 other Calumet communities or businesses received the pollution abatement orders.

$2,000 in Damage

Vandals Hit Cemetery Near Church at Zittau

ZITTAU — Vandals invaded the cemetery of the Immanuel Lutheran Church here last weekend.

Monument grave markers were broken; the upper section of two-piece markers were tipped off their bases; some markers firmly set in their bases were tipped or torn out of the ground, and ornamental stone knobs and crowns extending from monuments were broken off.

The destruction, believed to have taken place Saturday night, was noticed by members of the congregation arriving for church Sunday morning. The cemetery is located in the rear of the church grounds.

Members reported that 38 stones were damaged and estimated damage at about $2,000. They notified the Winnebago County Sheriff's Department, which is investigating. Council members also are seeking appraisal of the damages for monument companies.

Members of the church council said they were seeking information from anyone about the damage.

Rotary Party Set At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The Rotarians will entertain their ladies at a Halloween dinner party Oct. 28 at the Clintonville Riverside golf club house. Harold Heuer is program chairman.

The Rotary Club will not meet Monday next week because of the party.

"Club Service" was the topic of a talk given Monday at the luncheon meeting by Emory Rogers, Marion, past district Rotary governor. Don Jorgenson was the program chairman.

Lutherans Pick Officers

Sunday Schools in District 5 Meet at St. Paul, Fremont

FREMONT — Daniel Hanson of Trinity Lutheran Church, Nicholson, was elected president of the Sunday School Teachers Association of Circuit 5 at St. Paul Lutheran Church Sunday.

Other officers elected for two year terms are Robert Michelson of the Good Shepherd Church, Appleton, vice president; and Linda Opper of the Zion Lutheran Church, route 1, Fremont, secretary and treasurer. Elected to serve on the program planning committee for the spring and fall meetings during the next two years are the Rev. P. Knuth, pastor of the Trinity and Grace Lutheran churches of Bear Creek; Mrs. Edgar Hornburg of the St. Mark Lutheran Church, Symco, and Keith Brutlag of the Faith Lutheran Church, Appleton.

The Rev. S. Slow, Oconto, was guest speaker to the one hundred teachers attending.

Grocers Await Further Word on Cyclamates

Anyone using products containing cyclamates (artificial sweetener) doesn't have to rush down to the store to stock up on them today — but they better do it soon because it looks like few grocers or liquor salesmen are going to do any restocking.

In a poll of 30 Fox Valley business places, many managers weren't certain of what they would do with the products, but there didn't appear to be any panic to pull the products off the shelves immediately.

The federal government, acting on new evidence that cyclamates causes cancer in animals, this weekend ordered immediate production halt of all foods and drinks containing the ingredient.

It was stressed, however, by Secretary Robert Finch, of the Department of Health, Education and welfare, that there is no evidence at this point that cyclamates had caused cancer in humans.

"My decision to remove this from the list of approved substances in no sense should be interpreted as a lifesaving or emergency measure," he stressed.

In fact, it was pointed out, one of the studies done with rats shows that the amount fed to the rodents is "50 times the maximum amount previously proposed for adult human consumption."

It appeared to be these particular evidences, which stress that it is not an emergency, that has helped the local businessmen make the decision to wait for further word, although some did admit that they haven't even had time to think about it.

Discussions First

"They pulled this one on us during the weekend and I want to discuss this with my salesmen and other officials involved before I make any decisions," one grocery store manager said.

Others, like Krogers and SENTRY chain food stores, are waiting word from the home office.

"I'm going to let the consumers decide if they still want to buy the products containing cyclamate. If they do, it will be sold by February. If not, I will get it off the shelves then," said the manager of Doering's Food Store, Appleton.

That, in a nutshell, expressed the feelings of many other managers, almost all of whom added, "until someone from the government or the manufacturing firms tells me otherwise."

"As long as the distributor keeps supplying us and the people keep buying it, I'll sell it," said the manager of Best Beverages, Menasha, adding, "they (the manufacturers) are in close contact with the government boys and they know what's what."

The sweetener is widely used in both diet and non-diet substances. It has been estimated that about three out of every four families use the product in one way or another.

Temporary School Plan Ready Nov. 10

NEW LONDON — Plans for a temporary study hall-commons at the Washington Junior High School are to be ready for review at the Nov. 10 board of education meeting.

The Stubenrauch Associates, Sheboygan, were directed by the board to prepare the plans and to bring in firm prices on replacement of doors and windows in the school Monday.

A 60 by 82 foot prefabricated steel building is planned as a temporary means of solving the need for study hall and commons at the school. The additional space also will improve library facilities, presently used as a study area, and lessen the pressure for classroom space.

Retire Debt

Another benefit of the temporary structure will allow the district to retire some of its debt before starting another building program. It is expected within the next five years that a permanent addition will be made to the junior high school to provide more classrooms, a study hall-commons and improved physical education and shower room facilities.

At a recent meeting with the architect Supt. H. James Ramsdell said, it was proposed by the firm that it might be feasible to convert the present gymnasium into two stories of classrooms and then construct a new gymnasium and shower rooms. Ventilation and an ability to divide the present gymnasium are two problems that must be solved.

Ready for 1970

The temporary building is to be erected by the 1970 school term.

Doors and windows in the building have not been replaced since original construction in the early 1930's and have deteriorated badly.

Eight bids were received on the one acre of land which the former Maple Leaf School site. Ernest Omernick, New London, was high bidder at $2,130 and the board moved to sell him the land.

Judge Analyzes Democracy At Calumet Shrine Meeting

CHILTON — Calumet County Judge D. H. Seбора talked to members of the Calumet County Shrine Association at Hickory Hills Country Club Thursday.

Seбора asked, "Can Democracy Survive?"

"With one national crisis blurring into another, no one can be blamed for wondering if America has lost the capacity to manage its own affairs. That question leads in turn to an even broader and darker one — whether representative democracy as we know it is a tenable form of government in this age."

He said the nation faced many problems and had not responded adequately to any of them. Among them he listed alienation of the Negro, deterioration of the cities, disruption from strikes by public employees and others; pollution; loss of educational potential of mass media and unreasoning of much of the nation's youth.

New Restrictions

Seбора feels that solutions to these problems will require sharp changes in intellectual concepts and in political institutions, and much of the change will be toward new restrictions on private actions.

With the population explosion, more rules are necessary to live peacefully. He said the world is producing 70 million more people each year — 20 million more than the total population of France.

Seбора said some solutions could be gained by stiffening of public authority and that self-discipline and community discipline would avert anarchy and subsequent state repression.

He concluded, "You and your ancestors have fought for, sweat for, and paid for the great social, economic and educational advantages of this country. You must not lose them by default."

The dinner also was attended by the wives of the Shrine group.

Japan to Regain Rule of Okinawa

Military Bases Will Be Kept

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Japan have reached an understanding for the return of Okinawa to Tokyo's administrative control by 1972 while maintaining the U.S. military base on the island, officials say.

The agreement will call for taking U.S. nuclear weapons off the island, held by the United States since the Japanese defeat in World War II, according to the officials.

President Nixon and Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato plan to issue a joint statement about the transfer when they conclude their Nov. 19-21 meeting in Washington the officials said.

Formal Agreement

It will provide the date and the conditions to be embodied in a formal agreement negotiated after the Sato-Nixon meeting.

Negotiation of the final agreement, Nixon administration officials said, may take a year or more. When the United States and Japan reached an agreement in 1957 for the return of Iwo Jima and the Bonin Islands, it took seven months to negotiate the final details.

Officials say that the details are far more complicated in the case of Okinawa and the Ryukyu Islands. U.S. officials are not willing to detail in advance conditions for use of Okinawa as a major U.S. military outpost in the western Pacific.

Japan's Job

But Japan will take over the job of actually defending the strategic chain with its own sea, ground and air defense units, they said.

The U.S. base on Okinawa would be operated under the same conditions as prevail on other U.S. military bases in Japan under the existing security treaty between the two nations.

After June, 1970, the security treaty can be terminated by either side on one year's notice.

The United States would be obliged to hold prior consultations with the Tokyo government on military movements in and out of the island base, and storage of nuclear weapons on Okinawa would no longer be permitted after the Japanese flag is raised over the islands.

Nixon to Observe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Billy Graham will deliver brief remarks and a benediction Wednesday at a "National Day of Prayer" breakfast at the White House.

President Nixon has invited prayer groups from the House and Senate to attend the breakfast, and a senator will read the scriptures at the observance.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., heads the Senate group and Rep. Howard W. Pollock, R-Alaska, is leader of the House contingent.

BONN (AP) — The Bundestag elected Willy Brandt chancellor of West Germany today, ending two decades of Christian Democratic rule and giving West Germany its first Socialist chancellor in the nation's 20-year history.

The vote in the lower house of Parliament was 251-235 in Brandt's favor with five deputies abstaining, four ballots invalid and one deputy absent.

Brandt's victory, which gives him a mandate to govern for the next four years, was made possible by a coalition with the tiny Free Democratic party. In the Sept. 28 general election, Brandt's Social Democrats won only 224 seats to the Christian Democrats' 242, but the Free Democrats control 30 seats and gave Brandt the necessary majority.

Succeeds Kiesinger
Brandt, 55, succeeds Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger of the Christian Democrats who Brandt served as foreign minister. They had formed a Christian Democratic-Socialist coalition in December 1966.

Brandt earlier was mayor of West Berlin, a Socialist stronghold.

The vote for Brandt was two more than the required majority of the total 496 seats in the Bundestag. Brandt noted that he got "200 per cent more" votes than Konrad Adenauer did when he was elected West Germany's first chancellor in 1949 by one vote.

"I am thankful and a little bit proud that I am able to hold this office," he declared.

Major Hyrdle
He said he regarded his election as "a major hurdle" for his government coalition of Social Democrats and Free Democrats, but he added that the government's work "will not be all that easy."

Kiesinger said Brandt's small majority on the vote was "a sign of what is ahead."

"The new coalition will have a difficult time," he told newsmen. "It will have an opposition that is stronger than any in previous Bundestag. We will, of course, be a strong opposition."

Kiesinger added that there were differences between the partners in the new governing coalition, but that he expected the two parties to avoid making an issue of them at first.

"One will see how long it lasts," he said.

Berlin Mayor
Brandt made an international name as mayor of West Berlin from 1957 to 1966, but the Socialists under his leadership were unable to capture the government in the 1961 and 1965 elections.

Brandt was born Herbert Frahm on Dec. 18, 1913. He was illegitimate and was reared by his grandfather, a Socialist. He took the name Willy Brandt legally in 1948.

In high school, Brandt has said, "my friends were experts on cars, soccer and soaring planes — I was the politician."

He became an ardent Socialist, and when Adolf Hitler took power, he fled to Norway and became a Norwegian citizen.

When the Nazis overran Norway, he went to Sweden, and did not return to Germany until after World War II.

German Citizenship
He reapplied for German citizenship in 1948 and entered Social Democratic politics.

Brandt is now married to his second wife, Rut, a Norwegian. They have three sons—Peter, 21, Lars, 18, and Matthias, 8.

Brandt has said that he plans to be a "chancellor of internal reforms." The top ranks of Bonn's civil service may be shaken up, with scores of officials retired or taken out of influential places.

Brandt and the leader of the Free Democrats, Walter Scheel, have been working out the formula under which their parties will share power.

Scheel will be foreign minister and vice chancellor. He is expected to cooperate closely with Brandt, and Bonn's foreign policy is unlikely to undergo any immediate dramatic change.

Somalia's Day-Old Government Falls In Revolution 'to Save the Nation'

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) — A military coup overthrew Somalia's elected government early today less than 24 hours after the funeral of assassinated President 'Abdirashid Ali Shermarke.

The self-styled Revolutionary Council said in a broadcast: "The revolution was staged to save Somalia from the corrupt malpractices of the ruling classes."

The council said it will "abolish all the bad things left behind. Somalia will be led by responsible people, and tribalism will be abolished."

The council announced that the country had been sealed off from the outside world and that airports and seaports were closed. Some 400 Americans live in this sun-baked coastal city and in other parts of Somalia.

Troops in full battle dress with fixed bayonets took control before dawn amid an unusually heavy rain. All businesses except restaurants and essential stores were ordered closed.

Banks, communications offices, the harbor, the government printing office and other key installations were heavily guarded.

The government radio announced shortly after 11 a.m. that groups of more than three persons would not be permitted, and that no movement would be permitted on streets after 4 p.m.

Trucks with loudspeakers drove through the city announcing that today and perhaps Wednesday were holidays and that a new government was being formed.

He was criticized this week by local newspapers which accused him of selling public lands at drastically reduced prices to political friends.

No shooting or violence was reported by persons walking about the city.

Motor traffic was at a standstill, except for military vehicles. Some persons were forced to abandon their cars at gunpoint about sunup, but they were permitted to retrieve them later in the day.

People stood around in the shade, talking quietly or walking along backstreets to avoid the soldiers patrolling all main streets and guarding all embassies.

A radio announcement said the armed forces assumed power at 3 a.m. It said the country's foreign policy would remain the same.

State Funeral
Shermarke, who was elected in June 1967, was given a state funeral in Mogadishu Monday. The parliament had been expected to elect his successor within a month, and acting President Muktar Mohamed Hussein was among the leading candidates.

Hussein moved into the acting presidency from the presidency of the national assembly.

The Somali Embassy in Nairobi said a junta had been formed and had replaced the government of Prime Minister Mohamed Ibrahim Egal, the head of the Somali Youth League.

Shermarke became prime minister of Somalia in 1960 when the Texas-size territory of 4.5 million people gained its independence after years of rule by the Italians and the British.

Located at the tip of East Africa, Somalia is one of the hottest countries in the world and its people are nomadic cattle-men and traders. It is bordered by French Somaliland, Ethiopia and Kenya.

Mogadishu Radio said the Supreme Military Council ordered a curfew in the capital from 4 p.m. to 10 a.m. each day.

The broadcast said all public gatherings of more than three persons were forbidden and the military had been empowered to search persons at home and in the streets without a warrant.

Soviet Ship In Waters Off Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — A Soviet trawler came within a few hundred yards of South Vietnamese territorial waters on Sunday but left when government patrol boats went out to investigate, official sources reported today.

On Friday, South Vietnamese patrol boats fired at and possibly hit another Russian trawler which entered the 12-mile territorial limit near Da Nang.

The sources said ships believed to be Soviet have come close to South Vietnamese territorial waters several times in the past, but no report was made public because they did not violate the territorial limit.

The English-language Saigon Post reported that on Sunday a ship identified as the Grigory Vakulenchuk appeared early in the morning 12.5 miles off the South Vietnamese naval base at Re Island, about 50 miles south of the site of the incident Friday.

The report said the Vakulenchuk lay off the coast until late in the evening, two government patrol boats moved out to shadow her, then the Soviet ship left.

There was speculation that the trawler was maintaining some kind of electronic watch on naval station's radar and radio equipment.

Hurricane Laurie Threatens Mississippi, Louisiana Tip

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Hurricane Laurie lumbered through the Gulf of Mexico today and took a veering path that threatened the tip of Louisiana and the storm-crushed coast of Mississippi.

The growing storm, its high-end winds now whipping over open water at 100 miles per hour, drifted nearly 50 miles eastward during the early morning hours.

At 10 a.m. the New Orleans Weather Bureau located Laurie at about 230 miles south of New Orleans at 26.7 north latitude and 90.0 west longitude.

Gale Winds
Gale winds of 50 miles per hour reached the mouth of the Mississippi River—about 100 miles southeast of New Orleans

The Weather Bureau's 10 a.m. advisory said Laurie was poking along at about five miles per hour with a predicted slow and erratic movement during the day.

The move to the east lessened the threat to the southwestern Louisiana coast but the late-season storm caused concern along the Mississippi Gulf Coast, still crushed from the battering it took from Hurricane Camille just two months ago.

Through Marshlands
Despite the growing menace from the storm, Mississippians along the 30-mile beach from Pass Christian to Pascagoula didn't appear perturbed during the morning hours.

But in the low-lying areas of Louisiana, all through the marshlands south and west of New Orleans to the Gulf's edge, evacuees moved into refuge centers on higher ground.

In Lafourche Parish, where oil is a big factor in the economy, more than 25,000 residents were asked to leave homes in low spots for evacuation stations in Raceland, Lockport and Thibodaux.

Oil companies with crews working offshore rigs closed operations Monday and moved crews to land.

Schools in some of the coastal counties of Louisiana closed Monday and Hancock County, Miss., just across the Louisiana line, closed its schools today.

Dinis Describes Necessity for Kopechne Autopsy

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis took the witness stand today to contradict earlier testimony by an associate medical examiner who said Dinis had told him he did not think an autopsy on the body of Mary Jo Kopechne was necessary.

Dinis said he had first sought an autopsy on July 20, one day after the young woman's body was recovered from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's automobile in a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island.

By that time, Dinis said, Miss Kopechne's body already had been flown to Pennsylvania for burial in nearby Larksville.

Petition Hearing
Dinis testified before Judge Bernard C. Brominski of Common Pleas Court in the second day of a hearing on Dinis' petition to have the body of the 28-year-old secretary exhumed for an autopsy.

He says an autopsy is vital to an inquest he has scheduled into her death.

Dr. Donald R. Mills, associate medical examiner for Dukes County, Mass., testified Monday about a telephone conversation he had with Dinis "on Thursday, July 24 or thereabouts."

Sure of Drowning
Mills quoted Dinis as saying: "Mills, you're quite sure of your diagnosis of death by drowning?"

"My answer was, I certainly am," Mills said.

"Then Dinis said 'I don't think an autopsy is necessary, do you?' and I answered 'No I don't,'" Mills testified.

Dinis today denied he had discussed the advisability of an autopsy with Mills. He said he only discussed whether or not the physician was satisfied with his findings.

Joseph F. Flanagan, counsel for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Kopechne of Berkeley Heights, N.J., who are opposed to the autopsy, objected strenuously again and again as Dinis sought to give his reasons for pursuing the investigation into the girl's death and his need for an autopsy.

Not Satisfied
Armand Fernandes Jr., assistant to Dinis, asked the Massachusetts prosecutor whether he was satisfied with the investigation conducted by the police.

"I am not satisfied," Dinis said loudly just as Flanagan shouted an objection.

"It is not Mr. Dinis' determination to make, whether he is satisfied or not," Brominski commented in sustaining the objection.

"With reference to the death of Mary Jo Kopechne, what investigation if any has your office done?" Fernandes asked.

The objection on this was overruled and Dinis answered, "the district attorney has endeavored to speak to the parties who were present prior to and after the estimated time of death of Mary Jo Kopechne but has been unable to do so."

Witnesses Unavailable
"None of the witnesses was available," Flanagan then asked that this answer be stricken.

Brominski ordered it stricken. Under cross examination by Flanagan, Dinis said that he has authority to order an autopsy "if I am unsatisfied with the conditions as they existed at that time."

"You had authority at that time?" Flanagan asked.

"If I had knowledge upon which to base my judgment."

"You are the authorized district attorney of the four southern (Mass.) counties?"

"Yes."

"Did you order any police officer to do anything?"

"I am the chief prosecutor of the courts. I have no authority over the police. I have no authority to order any police officer to do anything."

Formal Action
Dinis said he decided to take formal action only after Kennedy made his nationwide television address on July 25, explaining his part in the accident.

"Didn't you tell Dr. Mills an autopsy was not necessary?"

Flanagan asked.

"I did not," Dinis said.

"You say you ordered an autopsy at 10 a.m. on July 20?"

"I positively did," Dinis replied.

"When did you learn that the body had been flown off the island?" Flanagan asked.

"I learned it at that time," Dinis said.

"Did you take any additional steps to reclaim the body?"

"No, I did not," Dinis said.

"Did you talk to any law enforcement officer in Luzerne County (Pa.) to see what could be done to get the body back?"

"No, I did not."

A Philadelphia medical examiner testified Monday that an autopsy "would tend to confirm, tend to modify, or could negate" the drowning verdict issued by Mills.

Dr. Joseph W. Spelman said he had performed several thousand autopsies and that an external examination alone, such as was performed on Miss Ko-pechne, "even if carefully and thoroughly done, frequently failed to reveal internal injuries."

Spelman was a key witness Monday in Common Pleas Court during the first day of a hearing on a petition by Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis of New Bedford, Mass., to have the body of the pretty, 28-year-old secretary exhumed.

Subpoena Tape
Dinis said he expected to finish his presentation today and that he would subpoena a videotape of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's nationally televised statement on events before and after the girl's body was found in his car.

Her father, Joseph A. Kopechne, also said he was prepared to testify.

Dinis maintains he needs an autopsy for an inquest he has scheduled into the death. In his petition to Judge Bernard C. Brominski, Dinis said the condition of the body when recovered "may or may not have been consistent with death by drowning."

Armand Fernandes Jr., a Dinis assistant, was admonished by the court Monday for repeatedly asking Dr. Donald R. Mills, the Massachusetts medical examiner, and Spelman whether the presence of bloody froth about the mouth or nose could be associated with manual strangulation.

Skull Fracture
Fernandes also raised the possibility of a skull fracture.

Spelman said that although three months have passed since Miss Kopechne's burial in Larksville, it still would be possible to make many observations and draw valid conclusions.

"Interpretation would be somewhat more difficult," Spelman said.

"The fact that her body was found in a car underwater," he added, "raises the possibility in my mind that significant injury might have occurred."

The car driven by Kennedy, plunged from a narrow bridge into a pond on Chappaquiddick Island off Massachusetts.

Dr. Mills, associate medical examiner of Dukes County, Mass., who made the original ruling of death by drowning, and two chemists who conducted laboratory tests testified that blood was present in Miss Kopechne's nose and on the back, both sleeves and collar of her blouse.

Strangulation
Each time Fernandes mentioned manual strangulation Judge Brominski sustained objections by Joseph F. Flanagan, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Kopechne of Berkeley Heights, N.J. The Kopechnes oppose an autopsy.

At one point, Brominski told Fernandes: "I want you to stay away from that line of questioning, please."

"What of a fractured skull, doctor?" Fernandes had asked Mills. "Would an external ex-
